DISMUKE REPLIES

to the Charges Made in Mr. Phelan's

TO ATTORNEY GENERAL OLNEY.

He Gives His Version of the Trouble Between Them,

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF WASHINGTON.

Mr. Myrick's Case May Be Settled On Way or the Other Today—Senator Gordon Will Soon Return Home,

Washington, April 16.—(Special.)—Colonel Fred Dismake has read Mr. Sid Phelan's letter to the postmaster general published in Saturday's Constitution and comes back at him one better.

Colonel Dismuke says the letter is a gross misrepresentation from start to finish.

In an interview on the subject, he says:
"In January, 1890, one James Cothron ap-"In January, 1890, one James Cothron appeared in Griffin and opened what he termed a brokerage business offering actual and future delivery sales on New York and Chicago markets. The ordinary thought him liable to a license tax of $500 and issued an execution for its collection. Cothron came to my office stating that he did not think himself liable to the tax and employed me, paying me $100 as a retainer's fee to resist payment for him. I filed a plea of illegality to the execution issued against him. Court to the execution issued against him. Court met the first Monday in February and the ordinary tried to get him indicted. The grand fury, after a full hearing, found no bill.

"After the court adjourned Cothron opened up a regular bucket shop," making him liable to the license. This business continued until April. In the meantime a number of persons had traded on his boards. All contracts, it being stated, were placed on the statement that the trade was placed in Chicago or New York. In April several persons bought futures in pork, myself being among the number. None of us had any idea of Phelan's connection with the business. On the Friday following the trade all of us increased our carryings, and on Saturday pork took a rise and each of us closed out. My profits were $6,300, and I had put up a "Cothron did not settle on Saturday and said he would have to go to Atlanta to get the money. His losses in the transaction amounted to from $16,000 to $20,000. He returned on Sunday and stated that our orders had been forwarded by Phelan but that Phelan had taken the risks and was broke. This was the first information that Phelan had anything to do with our trades. On Monday Thomas Nall, a cotton warehouse man who was in the deal, and myself, went to Atlanta and saw Phelan. Phelan said he was broke. I asked him if he could give us our margin back. I will pay nothing, he said. I then told him I would prosente him for conducting a bucket shop without a license. He said 'prosecute, I am as good a criminal lawyer as there is in Georgia.'

"I returned to Griffin, sued out warrants and brought Phelan to Griffin. I did push him vigorously until his lawyer paid us our margin money which amounted to $1,900. We got not a dollar of profits on our trade. Judge John I. Hall was our attorney and can testify to this."
Will Be Settled Some Way Soon.

Bascom Myrick thinks his application will be acted on in a few days now and possibly will be settled tomorrow. Senator Gordon is going to call on the president tomorrow morning and urge the appointment being Hemphill for a Foreign Mission-Ex-Congressman Hemphill, it is stated, is being groomed for a foreign mission. Mr. Cleveland threw him out of the appellate judgeship for this district because he was in the congress which created the court, but has intimated to Mr. Hemphill's friends that he will be taken care of.

THAT TREATY WITH RUSSIA.

Why It Has Not Been Ratified by the Czar. The Treaty with France.

Washington, April 16.—The probable reason for the hitherto unexplained delay of the sxchange of the ratifications of the extradition treaty recently concluded with Russia became known today. The treaty was ratified by the senate of the United States with a prendment limiting the section relating became known today. The treaty was ratified by the senate of the United States with an amendment limiting the section relating to political crimes, shortly before the close of the administration. The exchange of ratifications was to take place at St. Petersburg and the exchange copy for the United States, with instructions and authority to Minister White to effect the exchange, was forwarded some weeks ago. The announcement that the exchange had taken place was expected before the close of March, and the delay has given rise to considerable speculation. This went so far as to originate a rumor from Berlin that President Cleveland had instructed Minister White to withhold the exchange—a statement that was promptly denied at the state department. It was learned today that the delay in making the exchange was doubtless due to the absence of the exar from St. Petersburg. He is visiting his second son, George, who, on account of pulmonary weakness is spending some time in the Caucasus mountains in Crimea. The czar has not seen him for some months and in company with his family went to pass the Russian Easter week with the invalid. He is at a great distance from St. Petersburg, and means of communication are slow, mounted couriers being the most rapid. It is believed, however, that the czar's authentication of the Russian copy of the treaty is now in St. Petersburg and that the formality will soon be enacted. The copy for the Caur's signature left St. Petersburg on the 3d instant, he having returned by this data. It may be though that the czar day business last week, and if that should be so, a further delay of some days may ensue before the exchange actually takes place.

It is of interest in this connection to note that the exchange of the treaty of extradition with France, which was ratified at about the same time the Russian treaty was, has not yet been reported to the department of state, although the American copy has been in Paris for some weeks.

NO JEWS WANTED.

By the Union League Club, and Young Seligman Got It in the Neck. New York, April 16.—The Herald prints

the following:

"If all the tales growing out of the blackballing of young Theodore Seligman by the Union League Club are true, then there is a lot of young members of that republican brotherhood who are not chips off the old block. A new phase of the case has been made public, and by a club man, too.

"It was," said the club man, 'a question of race and religion. It was the outgrowth though of a movement which has been on foot in the club and has been gaining force, too, for some time.

"Everybody knows that the Union League Club was founded and has maintained a standing as a republican organization. The republican party has drawn on it for enthusiasm, brains and money.

"The truth of it all is that the younger element in the club, which rejected Seligman, has a notion of turning the American eagle out of the big clubhouse and the time honored constitution altogether and making a social affair of it. Oherishing that hope, they made a bitter fight against Mr. Seligman. They didn't want to establish or allow to be established, the precedent of having Hebrews as members, bacause by and by if it gets to be a social club instead of a substantial association of men, who have built up fortunes and come in handy to the party in campaign years, they think it won't do to have Hebrews on the roster. That's the whole story."

Mr. Cleveland Has Entered Into an Arrange ment with the City and State Politicians. New York, April 16.—The Herald prints the following: "President Cleveland has en-tered into an arrangement respecting the tered into an arrangement respecting the federal patronage in this state with the chiefs of the regular city and state organizations. Lieutenant Governor Sheehan, a principal in the agreement, brought the news of the result of his interview with Mr. Cleveland from the national capital. The substance of the agreement reached by Mr. Sheehan and Senator Murphy and Mr. Cleveland is that no appointment shall be made for a few days, or until candidates for federal offices, approved by the regular organizations, shall file their applications in Washington. Then Mr. Cleveland promises to give them due consideration. This understanding applies to Tammany as well as to the state machines.' The president has not advanced far in his welcome to 'the regulars,' but his attitude toward Lieutenant Governor Sheehan and Senator Murphy is described as having been cheerful and friendly, and they are gratified."

the dentist had parted with the possession thereof.

This decision is reached in the case of Charles A. Vandusee vs. William J. Woonsey. Judge Kelly grew quite humorous in a memorandum filed with the decision and used a number of figures of speech in deciding why the teeth should not be surrendered to be sold at public sale to the highest bidder on execution. It had been claimed that the sheriff could take possession of the teeth and dispose of them at public sale, but Judge Kelly decided that so long as the teeth are in the defendant's mouth, they are a part of his body and cannot be siezed as chattels.

Not to Strike.

Chicago, April 16.—It is not likely that there will be any further trouble with the workmen at the world's fair. A special meeting of the carpenters this afternoon decided that there should be no further trouble in that particular craft. The carpenters were strongly in favor of striking, but the other trades assured them that they must fight alone, and this, at the present state of the fair, meant utter defeat for the carpenters if they struck.

An Echo of the Nashville Failure.

HE WAS AN EXEMPLARY YOUNG MAN,

But the Desire to Get Suddenly Rich Led to His Ruin-Details of the Last Financial Disaster.

Nashville, Tenn., April 16.-(Special.)-There is another sensation in Nashville banking circles. Speculation has ruined another man and broken the bank with which e was connected.

The bank concerned is the Mechanics' Savings Bank and Trust Company, and John Schardt, its cashier, is short.

Schardt is short in his accounts from $40,000 to $60,000. He is sick at his home. and not allowed to talk. The directors of the bank have been in session all day and are still in session behind closed doors and will not talk. From one however, it is learned that it is believed the shortage is $65,000. Immediately after 12 o'clock tonight the bank will make a general assignment, which is now being prepared. It is a case of stealing and affects none of the other banks of the city. Schardt has been cashier about three months. Before that he had been teller of the bank and was thoroughly trusted. It is stated that the discovery of the shortage occurred yesterday when a check for $4,000 was presented and the teller could find no credit for the amount, Schardt, at the time, being at home sick. The president and directors were notified and an examination entered upon and it was discovered that there was a shortage. The plan Schardt worked was this: He would take deposits, enter them upon the passbook and not put them upon the books of the bank. It is also stated that Schardt has confessed to having used $40,000 of the bank's money. He is under bond for $20,000 and carries $80,000 life insurance, which, it is also stated, has been transferred to the bank.

New York, April 16.—A much mooted question among yachtsmen in these early spring days and one which almost takes precedence over the gossip about cup defenders, Royal Carrol's new boat and plans for the entertainment of the Englishmen who are expected to come over to witness the international race is, "Shall we go to the world's fair by water?' This question has already been answered in the affirmative by a number of the more enthusiastic, and they are busy over charts, maps and in making the thousand and one preparations which such a long journey necessitions which such as long journey necessitions. world's fair by water?' This question tates. Among those who have decided to make the trip are: E. C. Benedict, with his steamer Oneida, who will start as soon ham Dupont, with his new boat Au Revoir, which was launced at Wilmington on Friday; J. Walter Thompson, who has hired for the summer Edward C. Potter's Halcyon; Charles W. Harkniss, of Cleveland, with Postess; Charles C. Reynolds, of Toledo, with the Sigma; Major W. B. Wetmore, with the Lurline; T. P. Newberry, of Detroit, with the Truant; and possibly the Vanderbilt boat Conquerer.

There are also a couple of English boats, which are expected and which are now thing out at Cowes. These are the Norseman, owned by S. R. Patt, an enthusiastic yachtman and Lord Brassey's famous Sunbeam. Both of these yachts are very well known in this country. These are but a few of the boats which are likely to take the trip, but other owners, who have the matter under discussion, have not yet made up their minds definitely and, therefore, are onth to confess that they are even thinking of it. All the boats which do go will probably start by the middle of May in order that they may be home again in time for the cruise of the New York Yacht Club, which begins August 14th.

These protective measures are based on mode insurance principle and workingmen, protected by them, are insured against accidents, sickness, invalidity and old age. With the view of making its work known to American workingmen, the imperial insurance department of Berlin has prepared for the world's fair a concise summary, showing what benefits accrue to workingmen who become members of this peculiar social political organization. This summary, being the only work of the kind at the exposition, is bound to attract attention. On large wall maps will be shown statistics of the extent, costs and mode of operation of the various branches of workingmen's insurance, and in addition there will be abstracts of results up to the present time and interesting calculations based on averages showing what inthe present time and interesting calcula-tions based on averages showing what inmay fairly be drawn value of the system and its benefit to workingmen in general.

Panels for the Woman's Building.

Panels for the Woman's Building.

Mrs. Rosina Emmet Sherwood and her sister, Miss Lydia Emmet, are putting the finishing touches on the large panels that are to adorn the women's building. They will be sent west this week. Mrs. Sherwood has chosen for her subject "Republic Personified" in a red-capped, white-robed woman bestowing laurels upon literature, art, music and the home as represented in the arts by graceful young women, and in the case of rising generations by a chubby little boy at his mother's knee, who typifies the hope of the republic.

Miss Emmet has undertaken to represent and glorify the arts that are open to the women of our land by five young women students, one of them representing music, another art needlework, and others sculpture, painting and learning. In both cases the panels are some twelve feet in height and are very broadly and strongly painted in dull colors, in order to be seen to a good advantage at the height which they will be displayed. The figures are all carefully drawn and very well compared, indeed, and the color scheme is simple and harmonious. Both in sentiment and execution they are likely to prove worthy adornments of the building designed by and for the women of the land to illustrate their place and progress in the fine arts.

The "Rids" Will Be There. The "Kids" Will Be There.

The "Kids" Will Be There.

The small boy has caught the world's fair fever. There has been a great falling off in the number of boys in New York who want work, and it is said on good authority that this dearth is due to a general emigration to Chicago. The ranks of the American district telegraph boys began to thin out about a week ago and it was found impossible to get boys enough to fill up the vacant places. Accordingly 100 men were taken on the force, a thing almost without precedent. The superintendent of the newsboys' lodging house and other refuges for the small boy, say the number of tenants they have this year is very much smaller than this time last year. They attribute this scarcity of boys to the fact that they are working their way westward to Chicago and even further away.

Their services being accepted, the party left the Hotel Waldorf for the cathedral at 10:45 o'clock a. m. in two carriages. The party was composed of the duke of Veragua, his wife, Elizabeth of Veragua, duchess of Veragua; his daughter, Maria, and his son; the duke's brother, the marquis of Barboles, and his nephew: Commander Dickens and Mrs. Dickens and John Austin Stevens.

The duke and his brother were both very plainly dressed, wearing a Prince Albert black coat and vest, dark tweed trousers and silk hats. The dresses of the ladies were even more severe in their simplicity of style.

were even more severe in their simplicity of style.

When the party arrived at the cathedral a small crowd was on lifth avenue awniting the duke's arrival. Many deferentially paid their respects by doffing their hats, to which the duke responded in kind. A rather painful delay occurred during which the party remained outside, awniting an invitation to enter.

They were finally conducted down the middle aisle to the front seat on the left hand side. The duke's son and daughter were given chairs in front of the altar. Solemn high mass in honor of the occasion was celebrated. Archbishop Corrigan occupied the throne. On one side was the Rev. M. J. Lavelle and on the other the Rev. J. N. Connolly. The Rev. Henry T. Newey was celebrant, the Rev. P. Daly deacon, the Rev. T. H. Murphy subdeacon, and the Rev. W. S. McLaughlin master of ceremonies. The sermon was preached by the Rev. W. J. B. Daly. Father Keller's chancel choir, composed of sixty boys, also sang.

After mass the ducal party were driven back to the hotel where they passed the day quietly.

ATTACKED BY ITALIANS. And a Battle Took Place in Which Several

As a result two were killed, two more supposed to be dead lying at the bottom of a mine hole and three others were seriously injured.

About 10:30 o'clock last night a party of four Hungarians were coming into Har-leigh. They had reached a point about half way down Fisher's hill, when they were attacked by eleven Italians. The latter instantly opened fire. The firing was a signal for a concerted attack on the part of the Italians, who seemed to swarm from the woods on every side. About 300 yards further down a half dozen other Hungarians were met at the schoolhouse and on the Harleigh road four other Hungarians were met. The fight that ensued was

The Hungarians, who never go on the road at night unarmed, after the first onslaught prepared to defend themselves. A volley of bullets fired into the attacking Italians served to check them for a moment. It was only for a moment, however, as the next instant they closed in upon their adversaries and a fierce hand to hand conflict ensued, the Italian stilettos playing havoc with the Hungarians. The latter were outnumbered largely and becoming dismayed, broke and fled precipitately. The yells and whoops of the victorious Italians re-echeed through the mountains, and soon attracted a number of villagers to the scene. At each point of attack injured men were found lying on the ground groaning from wounds. attack injured men were found lying on the ground groaning from wounds.

A MURDER AND LYNCHING.

William Hardin Kills a Mexican, and Is Captured and Lynched.

Kingston, N.* M., April 16.—The news of a murder and lynching in the little town of Monticello is received here. William Hardin, the foreman of a cattle company, was in town and became intoxicated. To make a display he attempted to take a six-shooter away from Ed Simmons. Simmons resisted and a struggle ensued, when a Mexican interfered, and Hardin shot the Mexican. The murderer made his escape to the mountains, a short distance away. e was pursued and captured by a mob, overtaken and shot and his body mutilated in

SHOT THE GIRL

Beense He Imagined She Caused Troubl

Stewart had had trouble with his sweetheart, who boarded at the same house with Miss McDonald, and he imagined that the latter was in some way responsible. Late last night, Stewart went to the house and, obtaining admission, forced his way into Miss McDonald's room. He asked her for an explanation. She told him she knew nothing of the trouble. Drawing a revolver, Stewart shot the girl dead. He at once gave himself up and was taken to jail.

Wanted for Embezzlement. Wanted for Embezzlement.

Chicago, April 16.—E, E. Shaw, who for the past two years, has occupied the position of manager of the Farewell house, at Haistend and Adams street, is auxiously sought after by the proprietors of the hotel and the police. He is wanted on the charge of embezzling a considerable sum of money, the exact amount of which is not as yet definitely known. Shaw came to this city with good references from business men of Providence, R. I.

Killed and Robbed. Elsinore, Cal., April 16.—The body of J. S. THE MAYOR ATTACKED

And Beaten by Rioters in Brussels Yesterday.

THE SOCIALISTS HOLD MEETINGS.

And Incite the Mobs to Violence and Rioting.

GREEK FIRE AND STONES THROWN

Among the Police and They were Badly Burned and Bruised-The City in a State of Seige.

Brussels, April 16.-This has been a day of extreme watchfulness and anxiety on the part of the authorities throughout Belgium. Reports from all points indicate that the strike is spreading steadily, and the temper of the strikers is growing worse. In this city, the morning passed without disturbances. Several suffrage meetings were held, but they were orderly and the speeches were not violent. This afternoon, however, thousands of workingmen held a turbulent meeting on the road to the racecourse outside the city limits. The adver-tised object of the meeting was to denounce the porclamation of Mayor Buls, prohibiting public demonstrations in favor of universal suffrage.

Volders, the extreme socialist leader who was arrested on April 12th, made an incendiary speech in which he applied the most obnoxious epithets to M. Buls. The crowd became uproarious, shouting for revenge upon the mayor, and encouraged Volders to still more intemperate language. The police ordered the crowd to disperse. The workingmen answered with jeers. The police drew their swords and advanced towards the platform. Some of the crowd fired revolvers and a few threw stones, but the rest retreated retreated without show of fight to-wards the city. Nobody was injured. Mayor Buls was walking home on the ave-nue Louise about an hour later, when some nue Louise about an hour later, when some two hundred socialists, returning from the meeting, came down the street. They hooted and jeered, but allowed him to pass. After he had left the mob followed about fifty paces behind him. Three men ran out and one of them struck him a heavy blow with a stick on the head. As Buls retreated he received another blow on the back of the neck. He fell, bleeding and unconscious to the pavement. A resident of the avenue Louise, who had seen the first of the encounter, and had run for the police, returned with help just as the mayor was struck down. The police charged the socialists, and after a fight of ten minutes, dispersed them. Two of the crowd were arrested, but it has not been ascertained whether or not they are of the three who attacked M. Buls.

A witness of the mobbing has informed the police that just before their arrival a workingman fired seven shots from a revolver at the prostrate mayor. M. Buls was still unconscious when taken to his home. He recovered consciousness toward evening and probably will be able to resume his official duties within a few days. Meantime Alderman Andrews is acting mayor. King Leopold has twice inquired by special courier after his health.

It is reported that Volders will be arrested for his part in the meeting which preceded the assault.

This evening turbulent crowds have fought two hundred socialists, returning from the ed for his part in the meeting which pre-ceded the assault.

This evening turbulent crowds have fought the police in several districts of the city. In the Rue de I.a Brevier the mob became so threatening that mounted police charged them with drawn swords. The rioters threw jars of Greek fire and repeated vol-leys of stones among the police. Many of the mob were cut, or trampled mon leys of stones among the police. Many of the mob were cut or trampled upon. Twelve were arrested. Several policemen were burned or bruised.

The city is as if in a state of siege. All places of amusement are deserted. The police and the rioters have the streets to themselves. A dispatch from Mons says that the rioters have had possession of many streets there since early in the afternoon. Reinforcements of soldiers have been sent from this city.

ries While Making an Ascension.

San Francisco, April 16.—Miss Neille Hagie, a female aeronaut, was dashed against the side of a building while making an ascension at the Cliff house this afternoon and sustained terrible injuries. There was a strong wind and the balloon, while being inflated, escaped from twenty or thirty men who were holding it. Miss Hagie was already on the trapeze and before she could drop and determine what to do was thrown against the wall with frightful velocity. Both legs were broken. The woman dropped helpless to the ground, in an apparently lifeless condition. She received internal injuries, but is still alive and may recover.

Struck by the Train.

Wilmington, Del., April 16.—At 9:30 o'clock this evening a south-bound passenger train on the Baltimore and Ohlo road struck a buggy, killing Edward Lytle and Miss Mary Maloney, as they were crossing the track at Concord station, just north of the city. The man was insantly killed, his neck evidently being broken. The woman was seriously injured and the buggy was demolished. The horse was uninjured.

San Francisco, April 16.—Three of a pleasure party of four persons, of Bay View, were drowned in the harbor this afternoon by the capsting of their skiff. Heary Schooleder and his sister and George Reinfeldt and wife were in the party. Mrs. Reinfeldt was rescaed by a young man named Herman Brul, who himself narrowly escaped drowning.

Which Will Be Divided as the Law Directs-News and Gossip of Macon Affairs and People.

Macon, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—Mr. Hardin T. Johnson died without having made a will. He left an estate estimated to be easily worth $200,000. He was opposed to making a will, and when advised several times in the past to do so, he refused, saying that the general laws of the state were good enough for him and no will was necessary. Considering how careful and cautious he was in all business matters, it is surprising that he would not make a will. Some months ago when his leg had to be amputated on account of a causer to save his life. ted on account of a cancer to save his life, he was informed by his physicians that he might die under the operation and if he de-sired to make a will he had better do so. He sternly refused to make a will, inhaled the ether, closed his eyes and submitted to the operation. He rallied from it and lived until Friday night when he died suddenly from heart affection, as already stated in The Constitution. Will There Be Trouble?

Are the Central railroad engineers altogether satisfied with the decision of Judge Speer? There are rumblings beneath the surface to the effect that they are not satisfied, at least, so far as Judge Speer's ruling hed, at least, so far as Judge Speer's ruling on the boycott law of the organization is concerned. What will be the outcome, no one as yet knows. The brotherhood in the United States will not give up their strongest prop until the last legal step has been taken. They will appeal to the United States supreme court, and if that tribunal is against them, then congress will be memorialized on the subject.

Dalton, Ga., April 16. -(Special.)-A little over a year ago, a man by the name of I. V. Bowman, came to Dalton from east Tennessee. He appeared to be a nice sort of fellow, was agreeable, and palmed himself off as a single man. He became acqurinted with an estimable widow of this city, by the name of Mrs. Nannie Bohannon." He soon captivated her, and they were married. They lived together, seemingly hatpure for about three months, when ingly happy for about three months, when Bowman suddenly turned up missing—he had skipped for parts unknown, leaving his newly wedded bride without a word. His wife has anxiously watched for some word from him, but never a line has she received from him. She wrote to those he claimed to know before he came here and her queries have elicited a reply from one J. W. Freeman, of Pikeville, Tenn., which letter is very sensational in its nature. Freeman's wife is a sister of Bowman's first wife, who has been dead some years. Forsyth, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—A very painful accident happened to Mr. Banks Alexander and Dr. J. F. Lancaster yesterday, at Alexander's drug store. Dr. Lancaster had mixed some nitric acid and murcury and set it aside. Mr. Alexander, a few minutes after, took up the bottle containing the mixture, and removed the stopper. As soon as he did, so the acid flew in every direction, covering his face, which was badly burned. Dr. Lancaster, who was standing by, was also burned about the face, though he escaped much lighter than Mr. Alexander.

Drs. Cudisell and Clark promptly responded to their call and alleviated their sufferings as best they could. It is fortunate that the eyes of both gentlemen were uninjured.

There are two versions to the killing. They had all congregated at Bettie Banks's house, about 100 in number. Bettie was dealing out the wildcat whisky, and one version, and the one before the jury of inquest, is that Tete Thompson, a former hand, became full and imagined that the railroad negroes were trying to kill him, and fired his pistol three or four times in the crowd, killing King Jackson, a quiet, sober and inoffensive negro, and painfully wounding Dukes.

The other story is that the railroad negroes were after Thompson, throwing bottles, billets of wood and rocks at him and he was backing out and begging them not to kill him. Congregations.

THE DAY WAS BEAUTIFUL AND BRIGHT

Very Interesting Services at the Temple to the Living Johovahl Yesterday. Musicat the First Presbyterian

As usual, this church was well filled yesterday. A very attractive feature of the services is the hearty singing and the responsive readings of the scriptures, in both of which parts of the service the congregation enthusiastically joins.

The subject of the sermon yesterday morning was "Worship God." In substance Dr. Williamson said: "Man is recognized as a worshiping creature. Wherever we find him he is possessed with a power of worship. It may be crude, it may be uncutivated, but it is in his heart. I passed this morning, on my way to church, your beautiful capitol biulding. From its sun-kissed dome to its spiendid foundation it evidences wisdom and design. I feel like taking off my hat to the architect who planned and the workmen who builded it. If this capitol of Georgia thus impresses me, what shall I say of this handmade world, with its blue dome radiant with sunshine and bedecked with stars, with its lofty mountains and fertile valleys, its dancing rivers leaping in gladness to the sea and its crystal lakes and pulsing oceans, its happy spring time of blossom and of flower, its ripening summer gathering the sunshine in its golden grain, its reaping autumn and quiet winter? I deel impelled to take off my hat and bow my knee before the world's great architect and builder. This is worship, but the worship of admiration and wonder. Our text says, 'worship God.' I hence infer that God is an object of worship; he is a being embodying the attributes which compel worship, worship cannot be merely commanded, it must be evoked. It must come as the spontaneous offering of a heart impressed with reverence and love for the object of its worship, even the confession and will be heart impressed with confession and will be heart impressed with ship.

At the conclusion a young lady made the confession and will be baptized next Sunday night.

The Church of Our Father. At the Church of Our Father, Rev. W. C. At the Church of Our Father, Rev. W. C. Cole took the text for his sermon from Acts 4, 6 and 6, 10: "When the disciples of Jesus assembled after the resurrection, they spoke in a new spirit." This is not to be wondered at. They had for over two years been in the company of their Master; had seen how He worked and what He had done and preached, and now they continued in that same spirit. and now they continued in that same spirit, which was with them certainly a new spirit. The new spirit always goes further than the old conservative one, which is always surpassed by the new spirit. The new spirit finds, generally, a good deal of opposition, but will eventually predominate. The spirit of our time is the spirit of investigation, and this Investigation has been carried even as far as the Bible, but, instead of profanating the Bible, it has even given it a higher stand-point, making it the history of the development in religion in the human race.

As the pastor, Dr. Strickler, was absent attending the meeting of the Atlanta presbytery, the sermon at this church was preached by the Rev. Samuel Young, D.D. His text was Psalm cxlv, 11: "They shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom."

His subject was the glory of God's kingdom as it is in earth and in heaven. This thought was forcibly brought out and ilinstrated and the duty of every Christian to speak of this glory was insisted upon.

Miss Leonora Sheehan, the celebrated contraits sang with the choir at the morning service. She sang as an offertory "Ashamed of Josus," the touching solo for contraits or bass voices, in a beautiful and impressive manner. tie Contai Presbyterisu Church.

At the Catholic Church.

At the Catholic Church.

The sermon at high mass was preached by Father Duggan, of New York. He spoke only fifteen minutes, but embodied his subject in his short talk.

He read the gospel of the "good shepherd," and his remarks touched on that line. He spoke of the creation of man and the reason of his creation—to serve God—and told of the splendor and magnificence surrounding Ged and the happiness that existed in being near him. That all this happiness—boundless and infinite—would be ours if we loved and served God as commanded in the ten commandments. Christ's lowly life was referred to and a touching picture drawn of his sufferings. Throughout Father Duggan's sermon was a beautiful one, succinct and interesting.

The Church of the Redeemer.

The Church of the Redeemer "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," from "Messiah," was sung by Miss McGill by request. All present esteemed it a rare privilege to have heard this immortal work renlege to have heard this immortal work rendered by so gifted a singer.

Dr. Sherrill spoke from I John tii, 23: "And this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his son Jesus Christ and love one another." There are people who hesitate over creeds and somewhat also on how to regard Jesus Christ, but God and His commandments they have no doubt about. Our natural moral sense commands and assents to the ten commandments and the like.

The sermon concluded with an earnest call to move nearer up to God on the part of the church and an impressive appeal to those on the threshhold of the kingdom.

The Tent Meetings Continue.

The Tent Meetings Continue.

Those tent meetings out at the big tent will continue this week. They are largely attended and are doing an incalculable amount of good.

Tought Dr. Morrison will preach and there will unquestionably be a large gathering of churchmen and others out to hear him. The meetings have so far been so successful that the pastors who have been in charge of them have had no desire to discontinue them. They will last all of this week surely and may continue into next. Everybody is cordially invited to attend the services from night to night.

The Church Was Crowded. The Tent Meetings Continue.

The Church Was Crowded. The Church Was Crowded.

There is not a church in Atlants that is so much crowded from Sunday to Sunday, perhaps, as the First Methodist. Yesterday there was an unusually large crowd there and it is beginning to seem that the church will have to take steps towards enlarging the house.

and it is beginning to seem that the church will have to take steps towards enlarging the house.

Every Sunday for the past year or two the church has been crowded beyond its seating capacity. The recent meetings held there have tended to increase the attendance, the enthusiasm having been much increased, not only among the members of the church, but likewise also among the general church goers. The First Presbyterian.

only among the members of the church, out likewise also among the general church goers.

The First Presbyterian.

The service at The first Presbyterian church on yesterday morning was conducted with the usual interest and solemnity. The selections renered by the choir were as usual, attractive and pleasing. Dr Barnett selected his text from Galations, 1st chap, and 16 verse: "To reveal His Son in me that I might preach Him among the heathen; immediately I conferred not with fiesh and blood."

"Paul in this chapter of Galations was giving his religious experience to the people and telling them how wonderfully God had raised him up from sin and death.

"I suppose no two people in the world have exactly the same religious, experience and felt the same longings and obligations to God. Young people especially are troubled with the thought that they are to expect the same experiench with Christianity as some other people and devout Christians have felt. Every man has an individual spirit of his own and the experiences which occur to him in his life, naturally, will not come in exactly the same manner to any other person. Again, no two persons ever think exactly alike on any subject, and Charles II, who attempted to make all England embrace the same religion as himself soon gave up the idea without making any progress whatever. It is a gradual revelation which comes to us, and we must not expect religion to appear in our lives all at once. The varied forms under which we see it are too numerous to appear in a single thought.

The music was exceptionally fine. In addition to the charming songs of the regular schoir, Signor Campobello sang a selection from Gaul's "Holy City." which was simply superb. It was a great delight to the members of the congregation and the church was unusually crowded. Campobello has recently come to Atlanta to live and will have classes in vocal music. He is one of the most famous of operatic artists and has wondrous melody in his voice.

Five Wheelmen Came Up frem Macon on Their Bikes Yesterday.

Five Macon bicyclists left the Central City yesterday and rode up here on their wheels, the first time the distance, one hlundred and three miles, has ever been covered in a day on bicycles.

The wheelmen were J. H. Bascom, Hermen Huhn, W. B. Paulin, A. A. Berins and Robert Barner. They left Macon at 4 o'clock in the morning and took dinrer at Griffin. They were joined there by five members of the Capital City Cycle Club, who had gone down on their wheels. The ten came on up together, and got here about 7 o'clock. Not an accident occurred on the trip. All the wheels and the men were in good condition when they reached Atlanta. The actual riding time from Macon to Atlanta was nine hours and a quarter. Two or three of the Macon men left at 1 o'clock this morning on the East Tennessee for home. see for home.

It was his day off, and he wanted to spend it fishing. With him were two sons of Mr. James A. Lafitte.

As they were driving along one of the shafts of the buggy broke. The horse became frightened, and running into a tree, threw the three boys forcibly to the ground.

One of the Lafitte boys sustained brulses about the head, while the other sustained what may prove a serious injury to one of his knees. Burton was the worst hurt of all. His injuries are internal and may prove very serious.

MR. CALLOWAY SET RIGHT.

How Guy Jordan's Pocket Book Was Found and Returned to Him.

The further facts in the case of Mr. Gur. Jordan losing his pocket book in the Equitabre building, shows that Mr. T. J. Calloway, the keeper of the barber shop adjoining, was not the man who handed the money to the detective and that he knew nothing about the affair.

Mr. Jordan's pocket book had been found by a gentleman in another office, who gave it to the superintendent for safekeeping. Pending all this Mr. Jordan was procuring the arrest of Mr. Calloway's bootblack, who was innocent. As soon as the chief janitor discovered what was going on, and the cause was innocent. As soon as the chief jaintor discovered what was going on, and the cause of it, he ended the matter by delivering the pocket book.

Mr. Calloway had nothing to do with the entire affair. He is an honorable man, building up for himself a good trade by attention to business, and is respected by all who know him.

NINE MILLION DOLLARS

Will Be Affected by the Decision of Judge Lochren in a Railroad Case.

Minneapolis, Minns, April 16.—Argument on an important railroad suit has just been completed before Judge Lochren in the district court. The case was begun several days ago and involves an amount of about days ago and involves an amount of about $9.000,000 in mortgage claims on the Minneapolis and St. Louis road. The case is of national importance and involves much litigation. The case is being heard by Judge Lochren and is the last matter to be taken up before his leaving the bench to become commissioner of pensions. The decision is one that may be expected to give Judge Lochren a national reputation.

Henry Seibert, of New York, has sued for a foreclosure of a mortgage of $4,000,000, and this suit is said to be in the interest of the Rock Island road, which seeks to obtain possession of the Minneapolis and St. Louis as an enfrance into the twin cities. Numerous attorneys present vaterest of the Rock Island road, which seeks to obtain possession of the Minneapolis and St. Lodis as an enfrance into the twin cities. Numerous attorneys present various interests. A number of claimants are secured by a $5,000,000 mortgage, which is prior to other mortgages and is claimed to cover property acquired after it was given. The other parties claim that their mortgage also covers the entire road as a second mortgage, but by a prior lien on some of the extensions and improvements made after the former mortgage was given. The $5,000,000 mortgage covers a great many people who hold bonds. The $4,000,000 mortgage covers the holdings of the Rock Island people; the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York has a claim of $1,100,000; the Fidelity Insurance and Trust Company of Philadelphia claims a lien of $480,000. Among the holders of securities are the New York Life Insurance Company to the amount of several hundred dollars. The New York Mutual Life Insurance Company and several others also have their holdings of securities. The fact that the Minneapolis and St. Louis road is in the hand of a receiver and has not paid a cent of interest on bonds for four years, is exercising some of the holders. It is apparent that the road is paying, however, from the fact that Receiver Truesda has nearly a million dollars in cash in the treasury. The Rock Island interest claim that they should have this money to apply on its debt, but this proposition is resisted by other interests. It is alledged that the Rock Island thought that by securing the appointment of a receiver it would get the proceeds of the road, and failing in this, wants it sold to satisfy its claims and all the other liens against it, and expect to buy the Minneapolis and St. Louis road at forced sale at a low figure. The decision is awaited with great interest.

THEY WANT THEIR MONEY

And Will Strke if the Pullman Compa And Will Strke if the Pullman Company Does Not Pay Them.

Chicago, April 16.—The colored waiters employed by the Pullman Palace Car Company are talking of a strike. One month ago the waiters claim, 125 waiters were engaged in view of the increase of business during the fair. The men were not regularly engaged, but were engaged to be ready for any call between 9 o'clock a. m. and 9 o'clock p. m. The company now refused the men assert, to pay them for time put in. The regular waiters have taken the matter up and have appointed a committee to ask the company to pay them at least $1 per day for the month they have worked. An increase in wages for the regular men will also be asked and it the company make no concessions a strike is probable.

Every Indication Points to the Central's Reorganization Being Successful.

Florida Contral and Peninsular Affairs Heavy Truck Shipments—Savannah Has the Baseball Fever.

SAVANNAH.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN

Savannah, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)— There are but fourteen days left for the de-posit of Central railroad securities under the reorganization plan, they being subject to a discount unless deposited before May 1st, except in cases where parties are sub-jected to necessary delays.

The almost unanimous action of the Southwestern stockholders in favor of the report of their committee and of the reorganization has firmly strengthened confidence in its success, and more than one-fourth of the stock of that road has been deposited here for the nursees of entering the fourth of the stock of that road has been deposited here for the purpose of entering the plan. A large portion of these deposits have been made since the meeting was held and they are rushing in to the Southern bank now at the rate of two or three hundred thousand a day.

Up to date something like $6,000,000 or $7,000,000 in Central securities, or perhaps more, have been deposited here. The exact figures are not known, as they will not be given out for publication until the deposits have been completed. The action of the Richmond Terminal people has had little effect of a deleterious nature, and has been termed the "ebulition of a long pent up soreness." Those familiar with the administration of the property say that the soreness." Those familiar with the administration of the property say that the order referred to passed by Judge Speer, containing the contract which was so obnoxious to the Terminal people, but really to be saddled on the Richmond and Danville, as that road, while in charge of the Central, made these contracts with the Speyer syndicate and others with whom loans were negotiated, and the transference and consolidation of the loans necessitated a similar contract or a transference of the same one with the requisite extension of time.

The Florida Central and Peninsular.

The Florida Central and Peninsular railroad has been graded right up into the city, and there is little doubt now but that it will be a competing line with Mr. Plant's system from Florida. The rumors of a deal published some time ago were well founded, however, as President Duval stated to a representative of The Constitution that propositions had been made by the Plant Investment Company looking to the purchase of the road, and that they had been entertained. "But," said he, "they have all been rejected. The road is merchandisable and we, like any one else, will sell it if offered enough for our property."

The Florida Central and Peninsular officials have consulted with Mr. Comer about the use of the Central's terminal by their line, but it seems that the announcement of an agreement was a little premature, as no arrangement has yet been made. It is probable, however, that an agreement will be reached at an early date.

The road is to be constructed of 70-pound steel rails, and the work of laying them will no doubt begin within a week. The engines are to be of nineteen and twenty to twenty-four-inch cylinders, and twenty of them have been ordered and are now being constructed. One-half of the road is ready for rails, and there is little doubt but that it will be ready for work by September 1st, which is one month before the time stipulated in the contract. The Florida Central and Peninsular.

stipulated in the contract.

Immense Truck Shipments.

Besides being the foremost naval stores port and the second cotton port in the world, Savannah also lays a claim to rank with the foremost of ports in truck shipments.

Five steamers leave here each week for New York and Boston, and two for Balti-New York and Boston, and two for Baltimore, and each carries an average of twenty-five car loads of early vegetables from northern Florida and southern Georgia. The Kansas City carried on her last trip to New York 150 refrigerators of strawberries and asparagus alone, besides several car loads of potatoes, cabbage and tomatoes. A fast through freight for perishable truck is to be put on Monday. It will run on passenger schedule from here to New York and will carry from twenty-five to thirty cars of vegetables every day. A great deal of this business now goes north by the through freights, while the extremely perishable truck is handled by the express companies. The majority of the shipments so far have come from farther south, but Savannah truck growers are beginning to get their share of the business as the season advances, and among the foremost of these is Major G. M. Ryals, who is well known all over the state. He is one of the largest truck growers in south one of the largest truck growers in south Georgia.

Naval Stores Slacking Up.

Naval Stores Slacking Up.

Savannah closed the naval stores season of 1892-93 on March 31st, and began the new season on April 1st, having broken all previous records in the receipts and shipments of resin and turpentine, and establishing herself as the foremost naval stores port of the world. The tendency of such large receipts was to greatly depress prices, which were so low about the close of the season that there was very little margin or profit in naval store sales.

Things have rather changed, however, with the opening of the new season, and the receipts from April 1st to the 16th have fallen off nearly 40 per cent from what they were the same dates last year. The consequence has been a steady upward tendency in the market during the past two weeks and foreign shipments have been quite heavy. If this decrease is proportionate throughout the season there is every reason to believe that the products will again command fair prices and that the season will be an extremely prosperous one.

A Good Baseball Town.

There is no doubt about it, Savannah is a good town for baseball. The attendance on the games during the past week has been something remarkable. Everybody is interested in the sport and almost everybody goes. The games between Atlanta and Savannah were witnessed by more than 5,000 people each afternoon, and equally as large crowds attended the games with Chattanooga. Ladies attend every afternoon in large numbers, and the management has made excellent arrangements for the accommodation of the crowds. No objectionable characters whatever are admitted. A peculiarity in the games of lato which is remarked upon is the fact that Charleston was defeated by Savannah in an exhibition game and that Charleston has since defeated every team that defeated Savannah.

since defeated every team that defeated Savannah.

Ten thousand dollars have been raised for Savannah's May week celebration, and all that now remains to be done is to map out the programme and secure the features necessary for carrying it out. Five car loads of scenery have arrived in the city. This is for the mardi gras parade of the magnificent floats. The costumes alone cost $6,000. The pieces are now being put together by three French artists brought from New Orleans for the purpose.

Cut Short by Judge Falligant-A Lively Church Row.

Church Row.

Savannah, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—A temporary injunction was granted yesterday by Judge Falligant, of the superior court against Rev. E. K. Love, of the First African Baptist church, also against the deacons, restraining them from turning out of the church members opposed to Love and his faction. This fight began some time ago in an attempt of the minority, as it is called, to bring charges of immorality against Love and have him resign. Attempts have been made by the minority to bring these charges several times on conference Sunday, but they have not been able as yet to establish their case. The minority

The minority petitioned Judge Falligant for an injunction restraining Love and his side from dismissing any more of the anti-Lovites from the church. Judge Falligant said if the minority was not permitted to attend church he would close doors and appoint a receiver.

This fight has been of much interest here, as the First African Baptist church is the largest single church in the United States, numbering over five thousand communi-

MADISON'S MELANGE.

An Attempt to Wreck a Train-Other News and Personal Notes.

Madison, Ga., April 16 .- (Special.)-An attempt, only partially successful, was made to wreck the night trains on the Georgia railroad Wednesday night.

A tramp is supposed to have done the dastardly deed by which the lives of a score or more human beings were placed in deadly peril. The night express stopped near the mill of the Georgia Farmers' Oil and Fertilizer Company, and the conduc-tor and train hands put off a man who was trying to dead beat his way to Atlanta. The passenger train then proceeded on to Dorsey, at which place it passed two sections of the east-bound freight, in side track, which freight was due in Madison at 2 o'clock. After the express had gone by the first section of the freight started towards Madison at a lively gait, the enginthe first section of the freight started towards Madison at a lively gait, the engineer little dreaming of the open switch before him. When near the oil mill the eugineer detected the switch and hastily reversed his engine and applied the air brakes. But the train was under such headway that all efforts to stop so suddenly were only partially successful, as the engine and a number of freight cars were derailed, though there was no smash up and no one was injured.

An examination of the switch disclosed the fact that the lock had been broken with a rock and the switch set for the freight coming from Atlanta. The shattered lock and the rock used by the tramp in breaking it were found on an embankment near the scene of the wreck by the conductor of the freight, who carried them to the offices of the company in Augusta. The rear section of the freight was stopped in time to prevent what might have been a terrible rear-end collision. The engine of the second section was utilized in putting the derailed engine and cars back on the main line. The wreck caused a delay of two hours to freights going east and west. It is understood that the company will offer a reward for the apprehension of the guilty party, and that detectives are already at work on the case. It was, indeed, a mean, cowardly act, and might have involved more serious consequences, though, fortunately, no one was hurt.

fortunately, no one was hurt. A Happy Marriage.

Miss Ida Ackerman, of this city, and Mr. Eugene Hecht, of Monticello, were happily joined in the holy bonds of wedlock at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Doggett, of the Madison Presbyterian church. The home of the bride, which was the scene of this union of hearts and lives, was most tastefully arranged in a manner befitting the occasion, and the decorations themselves suggested the fair hand of cultured womanhood, such as the accomplished bride and her talented sister, Miss H. Maude, are known to be.

talented sister, Miss H. Maude, are known to be.

The attendants on this unique and charming event were Mr. John J. Sturgis and Miss H. Maude Ackerman and Mr. Clifford Dozier and Miss Sadie Heeht, of Monticello. Miss Leila Tunnell, of this city, officiated as maid of honor.

Mr. Hecht is one of Monticello's model young business men and is well known in Madison, his father having been engaged in the mercantile affairs of this city several years since. The bride-elect is one of Madison's most charming daughters, and numbers her friends by the score in this, the home of her girlhood. The happy couple left on the following afternoon at 5 o'clock for Monticello, their future home, carrying with them the best wishes of a very widely extended circle of friends and acquaintances. Madison's loss is Monticello's gain.

Business in Madison. Madison's depot presents a lively appearance these mornings at 10.45 o'clock. Four trains arrive at that hour, from Atlanta, Augusta, Macon and Athens, respectively, Angusta, Macon and Athens, respectively, and the clanging of bells, the crowds of passengers and spectators and the hackmen's cry all combine to give Madison a city-like appearance. Our people like the change of schedule on the Macon and Northern railroad.

Madison's Manufactories.

Madison's Manufactories.

The recent annual report of our municipal authorities contains this language with reference to our manufactories: "We congratulate the city of Madison upon the establishment during the past year of two pioneer industries in our midst, viz: A canning factory and a factory for the manufacture of ice. We should foster and extend such enterprises. They are sources from whence must flow part of the future growth and development of our city. All citizens being agreed that the erection of a cotton factory in our city is a pressing need, we are glad to announce that favorable negotiations have been had with foreign capitalists, and we suggest a meeting of our citizens to give definite direction to a movement looking to the early erection of such a manufactory.

The residence of Mr. Green B. Bostwick, in Wellington's district, this county, was totally destroyed by fire Saturday last, leaving the several chimners alone to mark the spot where once stood one of the old-time southern mansions, the home place of three generations of the Bostwicks. The Bostwick family has always stood high in Morgan county and some of the members were among the first settlers in this county. We sympathize with them in the loss of the old homestead.

Corn and Watermelons.

Americus, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—
From one of Sumter's best farmers, living in the fifteeath district, and who was in the city yesterday it was learned that it is a mistake to suppose that all the people were planting largely of cotton. We learn that in his neighborhood very much less acreage will be planted this year than last, and more corn. The large amount of fertilizers baught was to grow corn and watermelons, and thus to take the place of cotton seed sold at high prices. He said that his neighbors were raising hogs more than ever, and that the out ocreage was larger than ever before. When our farmers learn to raise less cotton and more hog and heminy then they will learn to grow richer.

Which Got Three Persons in Rome in

WOMAN And Is Said to Have Dene So Under Or

Courts. Rome, Ga., April 16 .- (Special.)-Three persons are now in Floyd jail charged with forgery. The forgery seems to have been one of the boldest and most diberate that has occurred in Rome in a long time.

Mr. Albert N. Tumlin is a merchant in Cave Spring, and a few days ago he wrote out a check on the First National bank of Rome for $30 and put it in an envelope preparatory to sending it to the postoflice. He laid it on his showcase and from there it was stolen by Jim Townsend, a young negro who lives in Rome, but who was working in Cave Spring at the time.

Townsend took the letter and came to Rome. He took out the check and carried it to the house of Louisa Boozer, a negro woman in South Rome. He wanted to have a new check written out made payable to Henry Cantsfield, a deck hand on a Coosa river steamboat. He sent a boy for a blank check and the boy returned with a blank check on the Merchants' bank Townsend gave this to the woman and told her to use the $30 check as a copy and to fill out the blank check payable to Henry Cantsfield, and make the amount $143.78.

The woman took the blank and filled it out, using the other check as a copy, and when she had finished the negro told her to sign the name of Albert N. Tumlin. This she did and Cantsfield took it and went at once to the First National bank. It was presented to Assistant Cashier Ed was presented to Assistant Cashier. Ed Magill, who at once saw there was something wrong, and refused to pay it. Mr. B. I. Hughes asked Cantsfield to go with him to the Merchants' hank, and as no one there knew anything about the check, and as it clearly showed fraud Cantsfield was at once arrested, and in a short time Townsend and the woman were also behind the bars. They will be tried at the present term of court.

Married in Rome.

Rome, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—There was a very interesting marriage at St. Peter's Episcopal church this week.

No cards had been issued, but it became generally known that Mr. J. O. Scott was going to lead to the altar Miss Evelyn Ball and a large crowd collected at the church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. B. Hodgins, the rector. The marriage came in the way of a surprise to many. Mr. Scott is a highly esteemed young man and holds an important position with the Postal Telegraph Company here. Miss Ball came to Rome about two years ago from Birmingham, England, and has made many friends and warm admirers during her residence in this city. The young people will reside in South Rome.

Couldn't Read It. The superior court ran against something last week far more vexing than tangled rights or flagrant cross-swearing, or anything else that it ever met before—it was a batch of court papers and affidavits from Germany, and they completely knocked out all the entire court, and the case in which they were introduced had to be continued.

at once brought suit against Gartner and obtained a number of judgments against him in the courts of Hamburg.

Gartner in order to protect himself then brought suit against Hand & Co. here, and sent over to his attorneys copies of the judgments and court papers obtained against him. The case came up for trial yesterday and the German documents were produced in evidence, but, io, and behold they were as sounding brass and tinkling symbols. They could not be read. Of course there were plenty of good German scholars among lawyers, who had read all sorts of German books—but these awful court papers they—well they were written in some new sort of German, and not a man could be found who read a word of them. Mr. M. C. Marshal, who had lived in Germany in his boyhood, was sent for but the German way of swearing to things was too much for him. M. Spelgeberg, a German Jew, was next put on the stand, but was helpless before these ponderous judgments drawn in the name of the kiser and Frederick the Great. Others were called in but it was no use, and the counsel for the defense pleaded surprise and the case was continued. In the meantime the lawyers will hunt up some one to translate them into English.

TAKEN TO WAYCROSS.

The Supposed Slayer of Mr. Wiseabaker In Safe Keeping.

Waycross, Ga., April 15.—(Special.)—W.
F. Cothran, who was arrested on suspicion of being the murderer of Mr. Wisenbaker at Valdosta, was brought here early this morning for safe keeping. Threats of lynching him caused the removal.
Cothran is in the city jail. He says he went to Valdosta from South Carolina two weeks ago and was on a visit with his wife to a friend. He said he sold his horse for $100 and when it was learned that he had that amount he was arrested and brought before Mrs. Wisenbaker, the wife of the murdered man, for identification. At first she would not say he was the murderer, but afterwards she said so.
The prisoner stated that he had never been near Mr. Wisenbaker's house.
Cothran is a mulatto and appears to be about the ordinary negro in intelligence. He says that if he is given a trial he will prove an alibi and come clear. Those who have talked with him believe that he is innocent of the crime.

WILL BE REORGANIZED THIS WEEK.

The Augusta Southern Bondholders and Incorporators to Meet in New York.

Augusta, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—The Augusta Southern railroad, which will suc-ceed the Augusta, Gibson and Sandersville railroad, will be thoroughly organized on Tuesday at a meeting to be held in New York. The state of Georgia has granted the Augusta Southern a charter and on Tuesday the charter will be accepted and officers elected.

A meeting of the committee of the Augusta, Gibson and Sandersville railroad bondholders and of the incorporators of the Augusta Southern has been collect for at 3:30 o'clock p. m., April 18th, in the law office of John W. Weed in New York city. Mr. James U. Jackson will leave tomorrow for New York to attend the meeting.

Canton, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—Mr. R. D. Garrison, of this place, has one of the rarest of rare coins. It is a confederate silver half dollar bearing date of 1861, and is the first of the kind we ever saw. It is the same size and make of the present United States silver half dollar except on one side the design consists of a shield, enclosed in wreaths of wheat and cotton stalks, on which are seven stars and bars and around the outer rim the words "Confederate States of America." The reverse side is the same as that on coins of the present day—the lady of liberty, thirteen stars, etc. Mr. Garrison has had the coin about eight years, and the fact that he has refused a pretty large premium for it shows that he prizes it very highly.

An Old Copper Coin.

Eastman, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—Mr. Kimberly, of Dubois, showed us an old copper coin or check, which he plowed up in an old field a few days ago. The coin is about the size of a penny piece, and on one side bears this inscription: "Frederick, duke of York," and on the other side: "Born August 16, 1763; died January 5, 1827—the Soldier's Friend." One side shows a monument with sheafs of wheat around it. Can some one tell us what the value of the coin was and is today? The dates history relating to the duke of York are correct. This may be quite a relic and worth some money today.

Americus, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—
Captain John A. Cobb returned yesterday from a week's visit to his plantation on Flint river, and reports farming operations well advanced down that way. Both corn and cotton, he says, are looking very well, though needing rain badly. The oat crop, which is one of the largest ever planted, is suffering to some extent from the drought, though it has sustained no material damage up to this time. He reports fine stands of corn and cotton, both of which are further advanced for the season than he has ever known before. Captain Cobb is one of the largest planters in Georgia, and is a recognized authority upon any subject pertaining to the farming interests of this section of the state.

Lincolnton, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—Mr. W. A. Flannigan has a curiosity in the shape of a pig. It is a sort of pet around the house, and stays with the dogs most of the time, even sleeping with them at night, and has developed some of the dogs' characteristics Mr. Flannigan says he was going home through the fields the other day and saw the pig chasing a rabbit for dear life, and apparently with as much earnestness as the best trained dog. Mr. Flannigan is undecided whether to fatten the pig for pork or train it for a fox hunter.

Waynesboro, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—William Gonder, colored, brought to this office Thursday what appears to be a missile for a six-pounder, that was plowed up in his field on McIntosh branch, which was a part of the battlefield of the Waynesboro fight in the late war. It is weighty enough to be solid, but as it has some suspicious looking brass fixings on the north side, we boys do not want to fumble with it. It may be shrapnel shot, or a solid shot, or a gate weight, but we don't want to try to unfasten the brass doings no matter what it is. A Relic of the War.

Gainesville, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—Joe Bird had an experience with a Jersey bull near Land that he wouldn't take several dollars for. The nerro went into the barn yard, where the bull was standing around thinking, and the animal made at him and ran him against the wall of the barn burying a horn in the logs on each side of the negro. In his struggle he broke off one horn and the other one had to be sawed off to free the darky. The negro wasn't much hurt, but was so badly scared that Dr. Cavender was called in. TEN PAGES

ATEANTA, GA., April 17, 1893.

No Room for It. The Milledgeville Chronicle, suggesting that Mr. Watson give the democratle party a chance to redeem its pledges, says it will be time enough for him to begin his third party campaign when the democrats fail to carry out their platform promises.

This is plausible enough, but it is in some sort a concession, though probably not so intended, and The Constitution does not propose to concede any necessity or justification for a third party in Georgia. Congress and the administration are but instruments employed by the people to carry out their will. instruments may fail. They have been known to fail aforetime, and what has happened once may happen again. We do not anticipate any such failure now. We know of no reason why the pledges made in the platform should not be carried out by a congress and an administration in sympathy with the party that formulated the platform. There have been hints and innuendoes in papers assuming to represent the administration in an intimate manner to the effect that democratic expectation in regard to tariff and financial reform is running too high. These hints are conveyed by indirection rather than by open declaration, and the impression they have created has touched even hopefulness of that early and enthusiastic tariff reformer Colonel William R. Morrison, who says that the contest over tariff reform in the party will be between the element that is in favor of real reform and the element that is anxious to perpetuate the na tional debt. He seems to be of the opinion that Shylockism will walk off with the innings-that the sugar bounty will be continued and that bonds will be issued to meet a part of the large expenditure necessary to carry on the government.

The Constitution does not know what evidence Colonel Morrison bases his Intimations on, nor what ground there is for the various suggestions that float on the surface of discussion. It still prefers to believe that the congress and the administration which the people have elected will redeem the pledges of the platform, and it shall continue in that belief until there is undoubted evidence to the contrary.

But the point we desire to make is that there would be no reasonable excuse for a third party even if congress and the administration should fail to meet the expectations of the party whose instruments they are. If the tariff and financial reforms promised in the democratic platform are ever to be carried out in this country it will be through the medium of the demoeratic party which is well nigh unanimous in insisting on them, and which has drawn to its support a large ele ment of conscientious voters who have heretofore supported the republicans. It is the mission of the democratic party to stand between modern Shylockism and the people and, in carrying out that mission there is no room for di-

To whatever extent the instruments selected to carry out the purposes of the party fail, that is a matter for correction In the party. If it be said that the people will not tolerate postponement, the reply is that an attempt to be the reply is that an attempt to build up a third party, or in any way to divide the real party of the people, will postpone reform for a generation. In other words, division as precisely what the agents and organs of Shylockism expect and desire. It would give them

The people must be patient and hopeful, and stand together. Unity is as essential in national as in state affairs. The carpenter does not destroy frame of his jack-plane because the blade refuses to cut, nor does he throw a knot in a plank. We say, therefore, that it will not be time for Mr. Watson to make his campaign or to organize his third party even when the instruments employed by the democratic party fail to carry out its will.

the blade away because it runs against

The remedy then will be the selection of new instruments and not a foolish and helter-skelter division.

A Bad Adviser.

State Senator Robert Howard, of Massachusetts, is giving some very peculiar advice to young men, his theme being the always interesting subject: "How to Get Rich."

Mr. Howard's experience leads him to the conclusion that a man will never get rich while working for daily wages, or an average salary. His advice to young men working for wages is to save their money until they have accumulated a moderate sum and then invest it in a good business speculation. Then, other speculations will follow, and a man of good judgment will have an opportunity of making a fortune.

He believes in borrowing money for business purposes, and says that he is now making $2,600 a year out of borrowed money invested in various enterprises. He started life on a small salary, but as soon as his credit enabled him to make a real estate investment he jumped at it and made money. Afterwards, and down to the present time he has been buying property with a little cash and a good deal of credit, and he is now regarded as a rich man. The whole sum and substance of his advice is that young men should strain their credit and borrow all the money they can to enable them to speculate in real estate.

This is very dangerous advice. The average young man has no right to engage in business on such an unsafe basis. Mr. Howard's ideas are too speculative. They are the ideas of a gam-

We do not dispute the statement that this man has succeeded in making money, but we seriously doubt whether he knows what his estate is worth. A man who has spent his whole life borrowing money, investing in speculative enterprises, and running all sorts of risks may figure as a big capitalist, but when his affars are wound up it often turns out that his liabilities equal if they do not overbalance his assets. The ate Charles P. Brown, of Bangor, was supposed to be worth from one million o six million dollars, but after his death, to the astonishment of everybody, it was found that his cash and real estate and personal property amounted to less than $16,000.

The Massachusetts Napoleon finance may have a similar experience. Just now, in the feverish excitement of his numerous speculations, he believes that he is very rich, but the tenor of his talk shows that he knows very little about his status. The developments of a few days may make or mar his fortune. His advice is bad because it encourages gambling, and because it tempts young men to risk the money of others when they see no certain prospect of repaying it. People spend too much time studying the problem of low to get rich. They would benefit themselves and others more if they would simply study the ways and means of living honestly, usefully and comfortably, and they should start with the understanding that a speculative career begun on borrowed money, will nine

Mr. Ingalls as a Prophet.

Now, that ex-Senator Ingalls is statesman out of a job, he feels that he can afford to be very frank and candid.

The Kansas orator in a recent letter says that slavery and secession are dead dogmas. Henceforth the negro will not hold the balance of power. There is a growing hostility to war issues and even the race problem is practically extinct. The negro must take his chances with the rest. There will be no more force bills and no more civil rights legislation.

Mr. Ingalls goes on to say that the African can no longer be a political factor, and with four years of democratic rule, Anglo-Saxon supremacy will never again be disturbed. He intimates that the suppression of the negro vote is all right, and suggests that under the same circumstances it would be suppressed in the north. As he puts it: There will be no more political campaigns fought in the United States upon the attitude of the democratic party during the war, nor its relations to slavery and secession, or reconstruction, or the resumption of specie payments, or the disputed succession of 1877. The dead past has buried its dead. Social and economic questions are at the front. The and economic questions are at the front. The industrial issue is the Aaron's rod that has swallowed all the rest. The masses have dis-covered that political equality does not bring about social fraternity; that the ballot is not about social raterity; that the onlot is not a medicine to cure all the diseases of the state, and that the inequalities of fortune and rank are as great under a republic as under an empire. In a country where liberty is universal, education provided for all, and every citizen the equal of every other before the law, with an equal chance in the structle of life, many are called and few struggle of life, many are called and few chosen; one eats crumbs and wears rags while another is clad in fine linen and purple nd fares sumptuously every day. Mr. Ingalls is a very bright man, and the wonder is that he did not see the situation in its true light when he was a statesman with a job. But disap pointment and defeat sometimes clarify a man's ideas and give him a keener insight into things. With so many of the old issues out of the way, what will the republicans make their fight on next time? They will have to advocate a protective tariff, the national banking system, the demonetization of silver and a centralized government. They must stand on this platform or disband, and with such a platform their defeat is a foregone conclusion.

A Silly Outrage.

Last Thursday night Theodore Seligman, the son of Jesse Seligman, the financier, was black-balled at the Union League Cub, of New York.

Young Seligman is a gentleman of irreproachable character and literary o the fact that they were When the result was announ Jesse Seligman rose and tendered his resignation. He said that he had been ember of the club twenty-five years and loved it, but if his own son was ruled out on account of his race and religion, then he, too, must go, as he belonged to the same race and held the same faith. It was voted unanimously not to accept the resignation, but of course Mr. Seligman would not with draw it.

As the Union League Club largely re flects republican sentiment, its anti-Jewish crusade has stirred up considerable excitement, especially as two Jews, Mr. Jesse Seligman and Mr. Edward Einstein have been very generous and public spirited Union Leaguers. The episode exhibits so much stupidity and brutality on the part of the black-ballers that their conduct is very generally conlemned. Such a spirit of intolerance and persecution will not be permitted to exist in this country, and when it crops out in a political party, the doom of that party is sealed.

Mr. Cleveland Sets an Example. Mr. Cleveland's attitude since he has een president ought to be an example to those officious persons who are trying to create the impression that they are his personal representatives. He is holding a pretty even hand between those democrats who favored his nomination and those who opposed it, and in that he is showing a strength of haracter and a breadth of purpose that other and less influential democrats would do well to emulate.

It is true Mr. Cleveland knows that hose who opposed his nomination were not moved by personal motives, but by reasons of party expediency. Being a good party man himself he can thoroughly understand why some of the est and truest men in the party should have been averse to his nomination. That his mind was broad enough to take in every phase of the situation is shown by the tenor of a letter he wrote to a correspondent in Chattanooga just before the convention. In that letter he expressed his own sincere doubts as to the wisdom of his nomination. He understood the situation thoroughly.

Nevertheless a smaller man-a man ess sure of himself-would have lost no time in punishing the temerity of those who thought that his nomination meant the defeat of the party; and in doing so he would have weakened the organization. Mr. Cleveland, on the other hand, has striven to strengthen the party, and he has succeeded. He has shown that his own democracy is impersonal and patriotic, and has set an example that all the "original" Cleveland men would do well to follow.

"The question as to who fired the last shot in the war comes under the category of 'what I know,' " said W. C. West to a Globe-Democrat representative on Monday. Colonel Barrett, of the Thirty-fourth Indiana infantry, assisted by four companies of the Stxty-second United States colored infantry, attacked the confed-States colored infantry, attacked the confederates. The result was a defeat for the union forces, and the last battle was not a victory for the union, as has generally been reported. Celonel Barrett could not rout the confederate cavalry, protected as they were by six-pounders, and they were compelled to retreat to the cover of the siege guns, which were at Brazos Santiago. The object of the federal forces was to capture Brownsville, thirty miles up the Blo Grande after driving Kithy Smith the Rio Grande, after driving Kirby Smith from his position. The battle of Palmetto Ranch was fought on the famous field of Resaca de la Palma, which lent additional charm to that last victorious stroke of the south. To escape capture, the color bearer of Colonel Barrett's regiment tore the flag down from its staff, tied the stars and stripes about his waist, jumped into the Rio Grande and swam to the Mexican side. The river at that point is wide and swift, which made the action of the color bearer very perilous. On going down the Rio Grande a few miles the brave down the rice of the protector recrossed the river and joined his comrades. I wrote out the official report of this engagement for the federal colonel in command, and know that what I have said is true."

"It is hard to believe; James Whitcomb Riley parts his bair in the middle. And it is slick, too, what there is of it."

The editor of The Tifton Gazette is hot for season. The following is fro blackberry the blackberry season. The following is from his freezing pen:

"Backward, turn backward, O time, in thy flight; give us July again, just for one night; give us mosquitoes and give us the flies, but turn on some heat before every one dies; bring back our straw hat and good linen pants; give us a chance to live, give us a chance!"

James Whitcomb Riley told a newspaper man that he is always troubled with diff-dence when he goes upon the platform to de-liver a lecture. "I always," says the poet, dence when he goes upon the passes the poet, liver a lecture. "I always," says the poet, liver a lecture. "I always," says the poet, "have an ague of a more or less pronounced type when I face an audience. But I have grown to be grateful for this, because I consider it an acknowledgement that a speaker owes his audience obelsance and that he is fearful he will not be able to fulfit their expectations. I would rather approach a crowd in this atti-I would rather approach a crowd in this atti-tude than to be too sanguine." Mr. Riley, to judge from these and other presents, is one of those rare and lovable individuals who wear the same sized hat after fame has come to them that they were before.

GOSSIP IN THE STATE

Editor Engram, of The Montezuma Record, doesn't make any apology for Georgia. He "Georgia has the reputation of being the greedlest state after offices in the union, but then we should remember that Georgia has more able citizens than almost any other state."

The Macon Evening News says of eighth The Macon Evening News says of eighth district politics:

"The prospects are there will be lively times in the eighth Georgia congressional district at the next election. Hon. Calvin George, of Morgan: Colonel Wylle G. Burnette, of Clarke, and Judge Columbus Heard, of Greene, will enter the race with Congressman Thomas G. Lawson."

This is the view The Pike County Journal takes of it:

"Watson is preparing now to make another state campaign. Nothing the democrats can do will suit Watson and his set. They pretend that if this administration keeps its pledges all will be well. Yet the 'thirds' are preparing for another fight before they know what is to be the policy of the democratic government."

The Columbus Enquirer-Sun takes a hope-ful view of Mr. Blackburn's case. It says:

"The information is youchsafed that while the president will not give him any of the offices with which his name has been con-nected, the assurance is positive that he is slated for something still better that will thoroughly please him. There will be a sus-picion after this that the president is saving for Blackburn one of those threatened va-cancies in the cabinet."

It is Morgan's turn to name the next sena

It is Morgan's turn to name the next sena-tor from the twenty-eighth district, and The Madisonian says:

"Who will be the candidate? We heard some one talk on the subject. Some want Usher Thomason to remain in the house, while others want him in the senate. All agree that he should have one of the places. The name of Mr. James J. Clack has been mentioned in connection with legislative hon-ors. Judge Walter Baldwin has come in for Eighth district politics are lively and growing more so. The Madisonian sums up as follows:

"Hon. Wylie Burnette, of Clarke, wants to go to congress. He is a good one, and no mistake. It is understood that Greene will present the name of Hon. Hal Lewis to the next congressional convention. He is another good one. The only John Canon, of Hart, is also inclined to jimmy with the band wagon. Judge Lawson, of Putnam, has said that he intended to offer for re-election, while old Morgan will undoubtedly trot out a colt never headed, in the person of Hon. Calvin George."

Editor Engram, of The Monteguma Record

"For the last two years we noticed the great decrease in the weight of the people all over the country where we traveled; they wore a dried, hard, careworn expression, but in the last few months they have to a large extent recovered from this condition. Could it have resulted from the great political and financial strain that was upon our people. We called the attention of a large number of people to this condition at the time; it was widespread, for we were about over different sections of the country and noted it closely."

The Press of that city says:

"It seems to be pretty well settled that the president will not disturb the present status of the postoffice and custom house in Savannah for sometime to-come."

The Darien Gazette endorses The Atheni Banner in the following:
"The Athens Banner wants Boss Buck

"Before some other fellow gets ahead of us we want to nominate the Hon. Carter Tate, congressman from the ninth, for re-election. Carter Tate is a whole team, and the old ninth ought to be proud of him."

The Morganton News aims this paragraph at the administration:

"Grover has not given any democrat an office yet in old Fannin. This is the home of the Duggers, you know."

The Rome Tribune makes a novel proposi tion in regard to a Georgia exhibit to the world's fair:

"Inasmuch as the state of Georgia will have no exhibit at the world's fair, would if not be a good idea to distribute there the state geologist's report? At least that portion of it which is complete should be put before the world on this occasion."

The Macon Evening News has this suggestive paragraph:

"The Greene county grand jury has given the Greene Rifies $400. Some of the other counties may wish they had done the same if the military is allowed to disband."

The Cleveland Progress is hot on the or a state geologist. It says: "The state of Georgia should not be one day without a competent state geologist and corps of assistants. Not a day passes but some substance new to our undeveloped section is discovered and its value remains unknown for want of proper classification."

The Cleveland Progress, speaking of the geological reports, says:

"As Governor Northen has proposed to publish Dr. Spencer's report, which embraces only northwest Georgia, we presume that he will certainly publish Assistant Whatley's report of this section. Should he fall to do so, he would show a spirit if unfairness that this section will not soon forget." The Warrenton Clipper takes this view of the case of Mr. Watson:

"All parties are very much gratified at the tone of conversation adopted by Mr. Watson since his return from Washington. Adversity is sometimes a good, if a hard, schoolmaster, Perhaps one more lesson will convince Mr. Watson of the error of his ways and cause him to return to the party of his first fove."

POLITICS IN GENERAL.

Richmond, Va., State: If a state is going to allow the sale of liquor the traffic should be carried on as any other business. The South Carolina idea is more undemocratic even than governmental control of railroad and the telegraph. It is a blow at the very foundate foundation of the government, in that it takes from individuals what rightly belongs them. The driving of idividuals business in order to make places for parti-sans is a dangerous policy, and one that is sure to prove disastrous.

Bizet
As will be remembered, his selections embraced songs gay, grave, sentimental, passionate, yielding, indeed, almost all the human emotions. His best pieces were "O du mein holder Abendstern," "Es blinkt der Thau," "The Lost Chord," and "Air of the Toreador," The audience became more enthused at each number, and at the last the signor was called back many times to sing that aria from Carmen, so well suited to hits voice and style.

Signor Campobello has a baritone voice. He sings with wonderful feeling and with perfect ease. After singing so many difficult songs one would imagine a voice to show more or less fatigue, but not so with this singer. He became more "warmed up" with each number, and at the last the voice seemed fresher and more pleasing than at his first. If Signor Campobello has had a great tax during his life on the stage it is not apparent in his voice. "True, his high notes show a little wear, but that is natural after singing heavy opera music for so long a time.

Other Events of the Week. The Atlanta Music Club has been fully They Will Delight Another Crowded House

The Atlanta Music Club has been fully organized, but up to date no time has been arranged for meeting. Most of the members are teachers, and morning or afternoon hours seem to conflict with the lessons of each. As no gentlemen will be admitted to the club it is impossible to have evenings for meeting. So the matter stands. The only hope for those interested in the affair is that as the summer season advances pupils drop off, and such being the case it is probable that a time satisfactory and convenient to all may be decided upon. The members are Misses McGill, Carobel Heidt, Leonora Sheehan, Julia S. Carter, Mae Pomeroy, Louise Romare, Nellie Horne, Mae Kenny, Nell McClendon, Nellie Knight, Lottie Panchen, Miss Schumann, Miss Werner, Mrs. Alfredo Barili, Mrs. H. W. B. Glover, Mrs. C. O. Sheridan, Miss Jennie Golden, Miss E. Kimey and Miss Prather. As will be seen, the number is small, but it has not been the intention of those getting up the club to have it exceed twenty in number. When affairs assume a more decided shape news of the club can be found in this column.

The Orpheus Glee Club and Banjo Sextet should feel proud of the splendid entertainment given by them Thursday of last week. Next to the "Robin Hood" opera there was the largest house that the Grand has yet held.

It is wonderful, even in a small community, to note the number of people fond of "the concord of sweet sound," and in looking over the audience on Thursday evening one saw persons from every rank of life. Persons whom we meet casually, never for a moment accusing them of the slightest fondness for music, the most beautiful of all the arts, were there, and proved the most selfish of listeners. All were plensed with the concert, as it was a kind that every one could understand and enjoy. Classical music is like Balzac's philosophy, inasmuch as one's wits must be centered on his ideas while reading, and there are comparatively few who have been educated to that degree that they like no other kind of reading and entertainment. Banjo music, on

The music of the banjoists brought to mind very vividly the music of the Spanish' Students, since both were soft, seductive, alluring. The guitar lent its sweet sounds to the banjo, toning down the instrument that often has too much of a twang. The music of the guitar causes one involuntary music of the guitar causes one involuntary

A pretty girl, a summer night,
A moon serenely, mellow, etc.
Banjo music, while equally as sweet, has not in it the sentiment possessed by the guitar. With it we connect that sweetest of songs, "Old Folks at Home." The mandolin also held forth in the club and blended well with the banjo and guitar. Who does not see "A wandering minstrel I, a thing of shreds and fatters" when the mere name of mandolin is mentioned? Each instrument has its story, and all is musical in its own way. Ensemble music like this is orchestra-like, but much more subdued and sweeter than the crash and bang where horns, cornets and drums are accompaniments.

Professor Carliele has delibed the club.

Professor Carlisle has drilled the club, and the highest compliment that can be paid is to say that the music seemed like that coming from one instrument. The selections were rather long, but the audience was attentive and enthused up to the last. Those who constitute the sextet are Mr. J. C. Carlisle, leader and director; Messrs.

Chapmen and J. A. Schmidt. Mr.
Chapmen Fewell is plane accompanist.

The singing of the Orpheus Glee Clubwas also good. The best pieces were those sung without plane. "Gipsy Life," an extremely difficult selection, was well rendered. Of the encores the first given was, perhaps, the best. Considering the fact that the young men have little, if any, knowledge of music, and that most of them must rely on the ear for what they learn, much praise should be given them. Mr. Cole, who is a lover of music and an indefatigable worker for it, has trained the club, and the choruses showed that his efforts had not been fruitless.

The Orpheus Glee Club is composed of some of our most sterling business young men, who are Messrs. E. S. Lumpkin, G. C. Price, J. L. Sutton, B. J. Roberts, S. C. Callaway, W. C. Johnson, H. H. Ethridge, H. H. Morse, I. E. Sargeaut, T. J. Day, E. F. Morgan, H. S. Cole, W. W. Orr. Mr. S. H. Cole is director.

WANTS TO CONFESS.

Lewis Redwine Desires to Make a Public

Lewis Redwine Desires to Rake a Public Statement—More Conflicting Stories.

A friend who often visits Redwine at the juil and who has been summoned to appear before the grand jury, but who has not yet testified, says that Redwine told him that he wanted to make a public confession, but was advised by his counsel not to do so. He said that Mr. Rountree wanted him to make a clean breast of it but that Colonel Hammond objected. To this friend Redwine said that Tom Cobb Jackson got $90,000 from him.

This party will testify to this when questioned. So it appears that the defaulter has made various and conflicting statements about what became of the money. It is certain that unless the $103,000 is pretty well accounted for, there will always be a suspicion against Redwine's friends. The only way that he can treat them justly will be to tell the exact truth and assist the prosecution in establishing corroborative testimony for his statement unsupported by other evidence will not be accepted by the public.

Suspicion Aroused.

Just after the suspicion it was reported that Store Breached.

Just after the suspicion it was reported that Steve Ryan had withdrawn the money his firm had on deposit in the Gate City bank the day Redwine skipped and this was not understood as it was rumored that the merchant got a tip in some mysterious not understood as it was rumored that the merchant got a tip in some mysterious way.

The story of how he got his tip is interesting and shows the importance of acting on what may seem improbable at times. It has been repeatedly published in The Constitution that the assistant cashier borrowed large sums from other banks on Friday and Saturday before the suspension. This was to enable him to make his cash and books show up all right when the examiner entered. Among the banks from which he borrowed was the American Banking and Trust Company. He borrowed from that institution $12,500. On Monday Captain English noticed that Lewis had made a mistake in sending the amount back. So he called his attention to it by messenger. Lewis said that it was an error made by one of the clerks. That did not explain it to Captain English who knew the writing on the envelop to be Redwine's. A message was sent to the Gate City bank to return the amount borrowed as it was needed. The assistant cashier asked to let is go over until the next day. In this way it was delayed until Tuesday. Redwine wanted to carry the loan over until Thursday, Wednesday being Washington's birthday and a legal holiday. Captain English was not satisfied and insisted on the money being returned. Finally, Redwine sent back $10,000 and a check for $2,500. His delay excited suspicion in the American Banking and Trust Company. Among the clerks there is Mr. Charles Ryan, a brother of Steve Ryan, the merchant. The clerk knew of the transactions and informed his brother. That was sufficient for the merchant who at once transferred his deposit $6,000 to another bank.

And this is the explanation of the tip he got.

Glad They Didn't.

Glad They Didn't.

The report that the Venable brothers had a tip, too, was a mistake. This firm had thought of buying the Gate City bank and had offered Mr. Hill $128 for his stock. He would not think of that and when $133 a share was proposed, he said,he might consider it. That was in December or early in January. Mr. Hill had no suspicion that anything was wrong in the bank, and he would not sell except at a high figure.

The American Banking and Trust Company in the meantime asked Venable Bros. for a share of the firm's business and the deposit in the Gate City bank was gradually drawn against while the deposits were added to the other bank until they ran up to $18,000 while in the Gate City bank they decreased to $3,600.

RILEY AND SHERLEY TONIGHT.

They Will Delight Another Crowded House at DeGive's, Sura.

We will all go to hear James Whitcomb Riley again tonight.

And there will be a great addition to the programme with Douglass Sherley to read too. What a programme it will be for the many admirers of these two men at De-Give's tonight goes without saying.

Mr. Riley was heard at DeGive's last Friday night, and those who filled the theater that night will go back tonight to a man. Mr. Riley's readings were never more enjoyed from the platform and stage than they were right here in Atlanta Friday night.

The audience was a large one and was soon in full sympathy with the strain of the famous author. They laughed with the "hoosier poet" when he led them through the great wheat fields of his native state where is found the true-type of the Indiana farmer, seeing with the eye of vivid fancy the pictures of hoosier life so faithfully portrayed by the peculiarly gifted sketch-maker and yarn-spinner.

They leaned forward in their seats as the jokes he told grew and grew into living pictures on the stage and when the final crisis of these jokes came the charmed listeners fell back into their seats and laughed and laughed until they were positively fearful of results if that creeping pain in their sides should be encouraged with further laughter. Oh, but he is a funny fellow to be sure, this man Riley!

But there must be a little rain with so much sunshine, and when Riley draws out the dreams from his quivering harp of poesy, striking here and there a plaintive chord so harmonious and so sweet and pathetic, a sudden change steals over the audience and before the strain has died away upon their ears they are sighing. There are men, and men; funny men, merry men, passive and sad; but when the man walks out upon the platform with more wondrous magnetism to every soul before him than James Whitcomb Riley and Sherley. In the somewhat rade, but surely expressive language of the lambs that sometimes gamble on the green, they are a pair that will do to draw to.

Touching Tributeto " "oet.

Speaking of James Whitcomb Riley and how much we love his songs, that make tears
"rise in the heart and gather to the eyes," with their touches of nature that make all the world akin," and how happy we are to the world akin," and how happy we are to do him honor, I must speak at this time for one who loved all the songs he wrote, but whose voice is hushed and whose hands are folded under a pansy-covered grave in Oakland cemetery. Engraved on the marble that marks her resting place is this tribute to Mr. Riley, copied from his "Away"

She has wandered into an unknown land, And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be, since she lingers there."

Guy Bodie, one of the prisoners who escaped from the Fulton county jail the last day of Sheriff Morrow's term, has been captured in Birningham. He was one of the crowd which got away when Gentry escaped. He is the first of the escapes to be arrested. Bodie will be brought back here today.

How the Movement Started and How It Is Being Carried Out.

A SKETCH OF THE WORK BEING DONE The Women of America to Gather the Treasures and Relics of a Nation for Its Casting.

The following poem, written by "Madge Morris," wife of Professor H. Wagner, superintendent of schools in San Diego, Cal., first suggested to Hon. William O. McDowell, of Newark, N. J., to plan the Columbian

"There's a legend told of a far-off land"—
The land of a king—where the people planned
To build them a bell that never should ring
But to fell of the death, or the birth, of a king,

Or proclaim an event, with its swinging slow,
That could startle the nation to joy or woe. planned—
Of common ore dug from the breast of the land, It was not to be builded-this bell that they land, But of metal first molded by skill of all arts— Built of the treasures of fond human hearts. And from all o'er the land like pilgrims they came,

Each to cast in a burden, a mite in the flame
Of the furnace—his offering—to mingle and swell
In the curious mass of this wonderful bell.

Knights came in armor and flung in the shields That had warded off blows on the Saracen

That had warded off blows on the Saracen fields,

Freemen brought chains from prisons afar—Bonds that had fettered the captives of war. And sabers were cast in the molten flood Stained with the crimson of heroes' blood. Pledges of love, a bracelet, a ring,

A gem that had gleamed in the crown of a king,

The coins that had ransomed a maiden from death,

The words, hot with eloquence, caught from the breath
Of a sage, and a prayer from the lips of a slave
Were heard and recorded, and cast in the wave
To be melted and molded together, and tell The tale of their wrongs in the tones of the bell.

It was fluished at last, and, by artisan hand, On its ponderous beams hung high over the land, The slow years passed by; but no sound ever fell On a listening ear from the tongue of the bell.

The brown spider wove her frail home on its walls,
And the dust settled deep in its cavernous halls.
Men laughed in derision, and scoffed at the pains

Of the builders; and harder and harder the chains
Of a tyrannous might on the people were laid;
More insatiae, more servile, the tribute they paid.

There was something they found far more cruel than death
And something far sweeter than life's fleeting

But, hark! in the midst of the turbulent throng, The moans of the weak and the groans of the strong,
There's a cry of alarm. Some invisible power
Is moving the long-silent bell in the tower.
Forward and backward, and forward it swung,
And Liberty! Liberty! Liberty! rung
From its wide, brazen throat, over mountain and vale,

Till the seas caught the echo, and monarchs

Our forefathers heard it-that wild thrilling tone, Ringing out to the world, and they claimed it their own, And up from the valley, and down from the hill, From the flame of the forge, from the field and the mill

They paid with their lives the price of its due,
And left it a legacy, freemen, to you
And ever when danger is menacing nigh,
The mighty bell swings in the belfry on high,
And men wake from their dreams, and grasp in afright,
Their swords, when its warning sweeps out in the night.

It rang its wild paen o'er war's goary waves lions of slaves; It started with horror and trembled a knell From ocean to ocean, when brave Lincoln fell. And again its wild notes sent a thrill through the land When Garfield was struck by a traitorous when Garneld was struck by a transcoul hand.

And once in each year as time onward rolls, Slowly and muffled and mournful it tolls

A direc, while Columbia pauses to spread

A tribute of love on the grave of her dead.

While Washington's name is emblazoned in gold,
While the valor of Perry or — is told,
While patriots treasure the words of a Hayne,
The fiery drops from the pen of a Paine;
While dear is the name of child, mother or wife,

Or sweet to a soul is the measure of life,

America's sons will to battle prepare

When its tones of alarm ring aloud on the air; For Liberty's goddess holds in her white hand

The cord of the bell that swings over our

The cord of the bell that swings over our land.

The responsibility of the production and the direction of the use of the bell have been placed in the hands of a committee of women representative from each republic of the world, and a representative from the patriotic societies—Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution, the Lyceum League of America, the Society of German Patriots, etc. The honor and responsibility of representing Georgia in this great coming together of states in union of hearts and Interests on the 30th of this month at tifle casting of the bell at Troy, N. Y., has been placed upon me by Governor Northen. The day chosen for the molding of the bell will be the 104th anniversary of the birth of our government in its completed form. That is, from the inauguration of George Washington as the first president of the United States, and on this anniversary the committee will see to it that all the various historic contributions that are to make a part of the bell shall be cast into the caldron that they may certify for all time to the fact that the various historic material contributed for that purpose, is made part of the bell.

In its creation it is particularly desired that the largest number of persons possible shall have a part in this bell, which shall ring out "peace on earth; good will to men."

The names of those who contributed relics, with the history of the relic sent me, will be entered curefully in the book which will accompany the bell wherever it goes. Bronze, gold, silver, copper, tin and nickel can be fused; and persons who have historical treasures too sacred to be sent as a whole. can send the smallest filing. In illustration, the committee has applied to the regents of Mount Vernon for the smallest filing from the key of the Bastile, which was presented by General LaFayette to General Washington.

At the same time that the bill will be produced a plow and pruning hook will be nemufactured out of swords and war materials contributed for the purpose. They will always accompany t as the Columbian liberty bell, and as near as possible a copy of the same, and will also give a year's subscription to The American Toung People, a patriotic magazine that will give from month to month the record of the use of the bell. In this way, it is hoped to expand to the greatest possible extent the influence of the idea of the bell, by having children understand and become interested in it.

The bell will be in the most appropriate place at the world's fair, then it will be sent to Bünker Hill or Liberty island to the battlefield of New Orleans, 1812, to San Francisco, to the place where any great patriotic celebration is being held until 1900, when it will be sent to Jerusalem, and then to the next world's exhibition which takes place at Paris, France. Then it will pass from its home in Washington, D. C., to places of interest throughout the world as a missionary of peace. It shall ring at sunrise and sunset, at 9 o'clock in the morning on the anniversaries of the days on which great events have occurred. Suggestions for the motto rand events to be celebrated, and names to be commemorated will be appreciated.

Those desiring to send relics should do so

His grandfather was pastor of the Third Presbyterian church in Charleston, S. C. He is an enthusiast about the Liberty bell, and the good feeling which he hopes it will bring about is a sort of religion with him.

and some of the olicials connect it with the opposition to the stables and the dumping ground.

Objections were made to a tallow factory which was near by, and as it was not removed by the city or the owners, it was by fire recently. That was believed to be an incendiary fire too, and being followed so closely by the destruction, of the stables, the conclusion is accepted that the latter were burned by an incendiary. Suits had been instituted against the city for maintaining a nuisace in the dumping ground and stables.

The night watchman, named Webb, says that he had just made a trip through the stables where the stock was kept and had gone up the little hill there to get a drink of water, and looking back, noticed a light which looked like a lantern. Not having noticed any one around when he was there a few minutes before he started down to investigate, but before he reached the stablus they were in fames. He ran up to the house of Mr. Waldron, the superintendent, investigate, but before he reached the stablus they were in flames. He ran up to the house of Mr. Waldron, the superintendent, and called him. An effort was made to set the mules and horses out, but it was impossible. They were in a long low shed, haltered on either side of an entry, their heads facing. Twenty-four horses were burned to death and over a hundred mules. Four mules were released, but they were terribly burned.

City and county convicts were at work yesterday, burying the dead animals. Hundreds of sets of harness, double and single, pare lost in the fire. The total loss to the city will be $35,000, which was about one-third insured. Only a few days ago $5,000 insurance was placed on the stock.

Inspector Veal had charge of the removal of the deby's, and got the place pretty well cleared up yesterday.

She reached the city last night and went at once to police headquarters, where she told her story and besought the advice and assistance of Chief of Detectives Wright. She came to Atlanta from Athens, in which city she has been several days looking for her husband.

A special in yesterday's Constitution told the story of Mrs. West's desertion and of her effort to find her husband. Failing to find him or to secure any clue to his where abouts in the Classic City, she came here to appeal to the police authorities. Chief Wright promised her to do everything possible to find her husband.

The runaway husband was an agent for the Kickapoo Medicine Company, and married his wife who was then a Miss Annie Williams, in Savannah. He left her there on one of his trips, and has never shown up. It may be that he will come back yet.

SHE COMETH NOT.

Curtis Was Arrested and His Sweetheart Has Not Arrived.

Curtis, the book agent who was arrested on Friday for stealing money, was engaged to be married soon. In fact, he had used the money which he stole from his friend to buy tickets for his sweetheart and her aunt to come here. The aunt is a young fady, too, younger in fact, than the niece. But the difference in their years is small. Both are reputed to be attractive tooking ladies. They reside in a town in another state, but not so far away but that they could be easily placed if their names were printed.

that they could be easily placed if their names were printed.

According to the information of the detectives, Cyrtis was not seriously disposed to matrimony. The plan was to get the ladies to come here under the impression that there would soon be a wedding, but the marriage was not counted on. Curtis had mentioned something like this in a boasting sort of way and Detectives Cason and Looney heard of it. They went to the Richmond and Danville's Ticket office and learned that the money had been deposited, there for the gurchase of the tickets at the point where the ladies live. The ladies will not come on and Mr. Curtis will be sweetheartless, it is presumed.

His plan fell through by reason of his talking too freely in advance.

The Verdict Not Suicide.

Editor Constitution—In the account of the death of Mr. W. T. Newman, published in Saturday's Constitution, it was implied, and in other newspapers definitely stated, that the coroner's jury rendered a verdict of suicide. This being an error, doubtlessly unintentional, will you kindly publish this correction.

I was a member of the coroner's jury, listened attentively to all the evidence and wrote the verdict. There was no evidence to the effect that the overdose of morphine was taken with suicidal intent, nor was there any statement to that effect in the language of the jury's verdict.

The statement that the remains were carried to Mr. Patterson's undertaking establishment was also an error.

which left Captain Anson with no opposing team, the great general has been making hay.

Friday and Saturday he had his men out hard at work, and today they will get at it again.

The Chicagos are all in good shape. Captain Anson is delighted with the showing shey have made and when he sees the newspaper flings of his rivals at his Coltabe smiles. "I'll fool 'em all," he says. "I'll be in it this year from the start, mark what I say."

The Chicagos certainly seem to have greatly improved their pitching department, where they were decidedly weal last year. With Hutchinson, McGill, Mauck, McGinnis and Stratton or Gumbert, Anson's team will be well equipped in pitchers. The Stratton-Gumbert deal will probably be settled this week. If Chicago gets Stratton, the Windy City will get the best of the trade and will get a man who desays to fank with the best of them.

From present indications the Chicago team, when it settled down to business, will be ag follows:

Kittredge and Lange, catchers.

Hutchinson, Stratton, McGill, McGianis and Mauck, pitchers.

Anson, Danleen and Parrott on the bases, with Ryan at shortheid.

Newman, Carathers and Lange in the outfield. with Wilmot still a probability.

Newman, Carphers and Lange in the outfield, with Wilmot still a probability. That is nobody's weak team.

Louisville Coming.

Handsome Billie Barnie and his team of colonels will reach here today for a series of games, beginning tomovrow.

The Louisville club is not made up of stars, but it contains a lot of excellent ball players and the games with Chicago will cartainly be worth seeing.

The Louisville team consists of Grime and Harrington, catchers; Hemming, Clausen, Lucid and Gumbert or Stratton, pitchers; Whistler, first base; the great Pfeffer, second base; George Pinckney, who was with Adianta a while last year, third base; the greatest of all the shortstops, Hughey Jennings; Weaver, Tom Brown and Curt Welch in the outfield.

The Funeral of Mr. William Newman Yester-day Was a Most Impressive One.

The funeral of Mr. William Newman took place at the residence where he formerly lived yesterday.

Dr. McDonald preached the funeral sermon and conducted the service. He made a very impressive talk after reading appropriate scriptures, and there were many eyes moist with tears when it was over. The poor old man had lived such a seemingly happy life until the very last that the funeral service was all the more sad and impressive.

There was a large representation of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at the funeral and the tribute of floral decorations that they laid upon his grave was among the most beautiful there. It was a large wreath with "Uncle Billy" written upon it, that being the name that they all knew him by in loving respect.

The quartet choir that sang at the funeral was from the Second Baptist church, and the music was very good. The burial took place at Oakland, and at 4 o'clock all that was mortal of the good old man went to its last rest.

DRPRICE'S Geall Baking Powder. The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum. Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard And They All With One Consent Began to Make Excuse."—An Eloquent Sermon by the Great Divine.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 16 .- (Special.)-Rev. Dr. Talmage, in his sermon in the Brooklyn tabernacle this forenoon, spread before the great audience in eloquent words the beauty and attractiveness of the gospel feast, the text chosen being from Luke 14:18: "And they all with one con-sent began to make excuse."

After the invitations to a levee are sent put the regrets come in. One man apolo gizes for non-attendance on one ground. another on another ground. The most of the regrets are founded on prior engagethe regrets are founded on prior engage ments. So in my text a great banquet was spread, the invitations were circulated, and now the regrets come in. The one gives an agricultural reason, the other a stock dealer's reason, the other a domestic reason. All poor reasons. The agricultural reason that the man had bought a farm and wanted to see it. Could he not see it the next day? The stock dealer's reason being that he had bought five yoke of oxen and he wanted to go and prove them. He had no business to buy them until he knew what they were. Besides that, a man who can own five yoke of oxen can command his own Besides that, he might have yoked two of them together and driven them on the way to the banquet, for locomotion was not as rapid then as now. The man who gave the domestic reason said he had got married. He ought to have taken his wife with him. The fact was, they did not want to go. "And they all with one consent began to make excuse." So now God spreads a great banquet; it is the gospel spreads a great banquet; it is the gospel feast, and the table reaches across the hemispheres, and the invitations go out and multitudes come and sit down and drink out of the chalices of God's love, while other multitudes decline coming—the one giving this apology and the other giving this apology and the other giving that apology; and they all with one consent begin to make excuse." I propose this morning so far as God may help me, to examine the apologies which men make for not entering the Christian life.

Apology the first: I am not sure there is anything valuable in the Christian religion. It is pleaded that there are so many impositions in this day, so many things that seem to be real are sham. A gilded outside may have a hollow inside; there is so much quackery in physics, in ethics, in politics, that men come to the habit of incredulity, and after a while they allow that incredulity to collide with our holy religion. But, my friends, I think religion has made a pretty good record in the world. How many wounds it has salved, how many pillars of fire it has lifted in the midnight wilderness, how many simoon-struck Saharas it hath turned into the gardens of feast, and the table reaches across the many wounds it has salved, how many pillars of fire it has lifted in the midnight wilderness, how many simoon-struck Saharas it hath turned into the gardens of the Lord; how it hath stilled the chopped sea; what rosy light it hath sent streaming through the rift of the stormcloud wreck; what pools of cool water it hath gathered for thirsty Hagar and Ishmael; what manna whiter than coriander seed it hath dropped all around the camp of hardly-bestead pilgrims; what promises it hath sent out like holy watchers to keep the lamps burning around deathbeds; through the darkness that lowers into the sepulchre, what flashes of resurrection morn!

Besides that, this religion has made so many heroes. It brought Summerfield, the Methodist, across the Atlantic occan with his silver trumpet to blow the acceptable year of the Lord, until it seemed as if all our American cities would take the kingdom of heaven by piolence. It sent Jehud Ashman into Africa alone, in a continent of naked barbarians, to lift the standard of civilization and Christianity. It made John Milton among poets, Raphael among painters, Christopher Wren among architects, Thorwaldsen among sculptors, Handel among musicians, Dupont among military commanders, and to give new wings to the imagination, and better balance to the judgment, and more determination to the will, and greater usefulness to the life, and grander nobility to the soul, there is nothing in all the earth like our Christian religion.

Nothing in religion! Why, then, all

Nothing in religion! Why, then, all those Christians were deceived, when in their dying moment they thought they saw the castles of the blessed; and your child, that with numberable acony you put away. their dying moment they thought they saw the castles of the blessed; and your child, that with unutterable agony you put away into the grave, you will never see him again, nor hear his sweet voice, nor feel the throb of his young heart? There is nothing in religion! Sickness will come upon you. Roll and turn on your pillow. No relief. The medicine may be bitter, the night may be dark, the pain may be sharp. No relief. Christ never comes to the sickroom. Let the pain stab. Let the fever burn. Curse it and die. There is nothing in religion! After awhile death will come. You will hear the pawing of the pale horse on the threshold. The spirit will be breaking away from the body, and it will take flight—whither? whither? There is no God, no ministering angels to conduct, no Christ, no heaven, no home. Nothing in religion! Oh! you are not willing to adopt such a dismal theory. And yet the world is full of skeptics. And let me say there is no class of people for whom I linve a warmer sympathy than for skeptics. We do not know how to treat them. We deride them: we carleature them. We deride them: we carleature them. We deride them: we carleature them. We instead of taking them by the soft hand of Christian love, clutch them with the iron pinchers of ecclesiasticism. Oh! if you knew how those men had fallen away from Christianity and become sceptics, you would not be so rough on them. Some were brought up in homes come sceptics, you would not be so rough on them. Some were brought up in homes where religion was overdone. The most wretched day in the week was Sunday. Religion was driven into them with a trip-Religion was driven into them with a triphammer. They have a surfeit of proven meetings. They were stuffed and choked with catechisms. They were told by their parents that they were the worst children that ever lived, because they liked to ride down hill better than to read "Pligrim's Progress." They never heard their parents talk of religion but with the corners of their mouths drawn down and the eyes rolled up.

Others went into scepticism through mal-

Others went into scepticism through maltreatment on the part of some who professed religion. There is a man who says: "My partner in business was voluble in prayer meeting; and he was officious in all religious circles; but he cheated me out of three thousand dollars, and I don't want any of that religion."

There are others who got into scepticism by a natural persistence in asking questions, why? or how? How can God be one being in three persons? They cannot understand it. Neither can I. How can God be a complete sovereign, and yet man a free agent? They cannot understand it. Neither can I. They cannot understand why a holy God lets sin come into the world. Neither can I. They say, "Here is a great mystery; here is a disciple of fashion, frivolous and godless all her davsshe lives on to be an octogenarian. Here is a Christian mother training her children for God and for heaven, self-sacrificing, Christ-like, indispensable, seemingly to that household—she takes the cancer and dies." The sceptic says, "I can't explain that." Neither can I.

Oh, I can see how men reason themselves into scepticism. With burning feet I have trod that blistering way. I know what it is to have a hundred nights poured into one hour. There are men in this audience who would give their thousands of dollars if they could get back to their old religion of their fathers. Such men are not to be caricatured, but helped, and not through their heads, but through their hearts. When these men really do come into the kingdom of God, they will be worth far more to the cause of Christ than those who never examined the evidences of Christian-ity. Thomas Chalmers once a sceptic, Bebert Hall, ence a sceptic, Christmas ing food of the goode chariot, how they made it speed ahead!

If, therefore, I stand this morning before men and women who have drifted away into scepticism, I throw out no scoff; I rather implead you by the memory of those good old times when you knelt at your mother's knee and said your evening prayer, and those other days of sickness when she watched all night and gave you the medicines at just the right time, and turned the pillow when it was hot, and, with hands long ago turned to dust, soothed your pains, and with that voice you will never hear again unless you join her in the better country, told you never mind—you would be better by and by; and by that dying couch where she talked so slowly, catching her breath between the words—by all those memories I ask you to come and take the same religion. It was good enough for her—it is good enough for you.

Ave. I make a better plea; by the wounds you.

Aye, I make a better plea; by the wounds and the death-throe of the Son of God, who approaches you this morning with torn brow and lacerated hands and whipped back, crying, "Come unto me, all ye who are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

will give you rest.

Other persons apologize for not entering the Christian life because of the incorrigibility of their temper. Now, we admit that it is harder for some people to become Christians than for others; but the grace of God never came to a mountain that it could not fathom, or to a bondage that it could not fathom, or to a bondage that it could not fathom, or to a bondage that it could not fathom, or to a bondage that it could not fathom, or to a bondage that it could not fathom, or to a bondage that it could not fathom, or to a bondage that it could not fathom, or to a bondage that it could not fathom, or to a bondage that it could not fathom, or to a ministry of kindings, and a-clatter; and the wildest, the haughtiest, the most ungovernable man ever created, by the grace of God may be subdued and sent out on a ministry of kindiness, and sond sends an August thunderstorm to water the wild flowers down in the grass.

Good resolution, reformatory effort, will not effect the change. It takes a mightier arm and a mightier hand to bend evil habits than the hand that bent the bow of Ulyses, and it takes a stronger lasso than ever held the buffalo on the prairie. A man cannot go forth with any human weapons and contend successfully against these Titans armed with uptorn mountain. But you have known men into whose spirit the influence of the gospel of Christ came, until their disposition was entirely changed. So it was with two merchants in New York. They were very antagonistic. They had done all they could to injure each other. They were in the same line of business. One of the merchants was converted to God. Having been converted he asked the Lord to teach him how to bear himself roward that business antagonist, and he was impressed with the fact that it was his duty when a customer asked for a certain kind of goods which he had not, but which he knew his opponent had, to recommend him to go to that store. I suppose that was about the hardest thing the man could do; but being thoroughly converted to God Cother persons apologize for not entering the Christian life because of the inconsistencies of those who profess religion. There are thousands of poor farmers. They do not know the nature of soil nor the proper rotation of crops. Their corn is shorter in the stalk and smaller in the ear. They have ten less bushels to the acre than their neighbors. But who declines being a farmer because there are so many poor farmers?

There are thousands of incompetent merchants. They buy at the wrong time. They get cheated in the sale of their goods. Every bale of goods is to them a bale of disaster. They fail after awhile and go out of business. But who declines to be a merchant because there are so many incompetent merchants? There are thousands of poor lawyers. They cannot draw a declaration that will stand the test. They cannot help a defendant escape from the injustice of his-persecutors. They are the worst evidence against any case in which they retained. But who declines to be a lawyer because there are so many incompetent lawyer? Yet there are tens of thousands of people who decline being religious because there are so many unworthy Christians, Now, I say it is illogical. Poor lawyers are nothing against jurisprudence, poor physicians are nothing against agriculture and mean, contemptible professors of religion are nothing against or glorious Christianity.

Sometimes you have been riding along on a summer night by a swamp, and you have seen lichts that kindled over decayed vegetation—lights which are called Jack o'lantern or Will o' the wisp. These lights are merely polsonous miasmata. My friends, on your way to heaven you will make a very poor balm for our wounds.

Sickness will come, and we will be pushed out toward the Red sea which divides this world from the next, and not the inconsistency of Christians, but the rod of faith will wave back the waters as a commander wheels his host. The judgment will come, with its thundershod solemnities, attended by bursting mountains and the deep laugh of earthquakes, and suns section. They not there were against R, and fight is back with towels and with yardsticks, and cry, "Away with your religion from our store, our factory?"

They do not understand that religion in this workaday world will help, you to do anything you ought to do. It can lay a keed, it can sail a ship, it can buy a cargo, it can work a pulley, it can pave a street, it can the control of the cont shoe"—and thinking on this very theme, and preparing this very sermon, it seemed to me as if the great courser of eternity speeding along had just struck the mountain with one hoof and gone on into illimitable space. So short is time, so insignificant is earth, compared with the vast eternity. This morning voices roll down the sky, and all the worlds of light are ready to rejoice at your disenthralment. Rush not into the presence of the king ragged with sin, when you may have this robe of righteousness. Dash not your foot to pieces against the throne of crucified Christ. Throw not your crown of life off the battlements. All the scribes of God are this moment ready with volumes of living light to record the news of your soul emancipated.

HE WAS A CLERK IN THE STORE.

He Managed It Well-Gip South Steals a Baby Carriage-Other Police Items.

On the night of March 13th, Dr. C. A. Moran's drug store in the new Coker building on East Hunter street was robbed of $62. When Dr. Moran discovered the theft on the following morning, he noticed that the rear window had been raised, and he reached the very natural conclusion under the circumstances that the thief had entered by raising the window.

Detective Green made some significant discoveries when he examined the window the next day. Charley Johnson, a seventeen-year-old clark in the store showed the window it was found. The detective made careful axaminations of the window, and found from finger prints in the dust that the window had been opened from the inside.

He told Dr. Moran of his discovery and asked if any one had access to the store. Charley Johnson, the clerk, had a key. And then Detective Green confided to Dr. Moran his theory that Johnson hed taken the money. That day Johnson left the employ of Dr. Moran.

That was one month ago. Detective Green has been at work on the case since

That was one month ago. Detective Green has been at work on the case since he first began it, and although firmly convinced that young Johnson was the thief, he had no proof of his guilt. At last the pot the evidence most needed in a most anexpected way. He was called out to the home of a widow, Mrs. Ozburn, who wanted the police to assist her in preventing her boy from going to Chicago. He was her only support and a crowd of young boys had induced him to go to Chicago. She told the detective that her son had a sum of money which she did not know how he came by it. The detective talked with young Ozburn, and from him got the story of how Dr. Moran's store was burglarlzed.

On the night of March 13th he and Char-on the night of March 13th he and Charley Johnson were at Grace church and fell to talking about their proposed trip to Chicago. Johnson asked him to go with him to the drug store. He went and Johnson robbed the cash drawer, and to throw off suspicion raised the window and left it open. Detective Green at once arrested Johnson, who at first denied his guilt, but upon being confronted with evidence of his guilt, weakened and admitted that he had taken the money. Young Johnson was locked up, but succeeded in making bond yesterday afternoon. His father is well known in the city as a collecting attorney.

Gip South has turned up again, this time day morning Patrolmen Harris and Hollingsworth arrested Gip on a charge of larceny. When arrested the irrepressible youth had his booty with him. It seems that he went to the residence of a Mr. Padgett, on McAfee street during the morning, and taking a fancy to a baby carriage, carried it off with him. This fact was discovered soon after Glp disappeared, and was reported to the officers who arrested him.

The Barber is All Right.

The Barber is All Right.

In Saturday morning's paper some reference was made to the proprietor of a barber shop in the Equitable building, in the article about the loss of a large amount of notes by Mr. Guy Jordan. It was stated that the book was turned over to the proprietor of the barber shop after Detective Green had arrested a negro boy employed in the place. This was the fact but not all the facts as was developed yesterday by Detective Green. The pocketbook was found by Mr. T. H. Williams, Jr., who turned it over to Mr. Litt Bloodworth. These gentlemen heard of the arrest of the boy and sent the book to the barber. The barb erthen followed Detective Green and turned it over to him. The barber was not at all at fault in the matter.

THE HOLLINS PLAN.

A Card from Messrs. Calhoun, King & Spalding Attacking It. Editor Constitution-In your issue of Friday, April 14th, we notice an editorial advocating the adoption by the junior security holders of the Central railroad of what is known as the Hollins reorganization plan. You urge the acceptance thereof upon three grounds:

four args the description of the Central will not be worth a cent. The system will be dismembered, and the parts bought in by parties who have no interest in the property.

2. That the parties fighting the reorganization are composed chiefly of holders of securities in corporations excluded from the plan of reorganization.

3. That the ownership of the 42,000 shares reorganized the road when they purchased the stock; that the result has been fatal to the company; that the junior security, holders will suffer if the majority stock should again control, and that the majority stock would not be fighting the reorganization plan if they did not fear it.

We are constrained to believe that The Constitution has taken this position without due consideration of the merits of the matter, and representing a large amount of securities of the Central railroad with interests absolutely identical with those of the stockholders, debeuture holders and the holders of guaranteed stocks and bonds, we beg to trespass upon your valuable columns sumiciently to point out to the security holders of the Central railroad system why their adherence to the Hollins plan would be both useless and ruinous to them.

The statement that the owners of the 42,000 shares of stock when they purchased the same reorganized the Central railroad is clearly an error. At all times during the five years in which such majority exercised its control, the organization of the property remained precisely as it was when such control was acquired, and during that entire time every interest charge upon the property was paid and no dividend was passed; no principal, interest or dividend due upon any security of the Central railroad and as the majority and must fare equally, if said 42,000 shares are protected, and all superior securities must be first taken care of. If, therefore, the 42,000 shares fear the Hollins reorganization plan as disastrous to them, it is fair to assume that such plan is not beneficial to any stockholder of the Central railroad was feel sure that The Constitution does not wish to lend itself to anything which would be hurfful to the security holders of the Central railroad.

In the first place it is impossible

WHAT GOVERNOR BULLOCK SAYS. The Trades School for Colored People

Some Important Facts.

Governor Bullock returned from New York on the vestibule train Saturday. He visited New York on the invitation of Dr. Curry for consultation with the educa-tional committee and trustees of the Slater fund in regard to the proposed trades school for colored people.

fund in regard to the proposed trades school for colored people.

The governor says he found the trustees very much in earnest in their purpose to sustain such a school when one is founded at some point in the south. He found also that Chattanooga, Nashville and Charleston, S. C., are taking active steps to secure such grounds and buildings as will meet the requirements of the trustees, and that Atlanta must be in earnest if she expects to secure this very advantageous and important location.

if she expects to secure this very advantageous and important location.

The governor further says that the trustees expressed unanimously the desire and purpose that wherever the school may be located it shall be entirely under the control of trustees appointed by the community establishing the buildings.

The Slater fund trustees desire and intend to avoid even the appearance of intrusion either in management or location of such an institution. It is only their purpose to aid and supplement the efforts made by our own people to establish and carry on this important work for giving our colored citizens practical help in acquiring such handicraft as will enable them to become self-supporting and useful men.

REPORTED FOR THE CONSTITUTION

Peoples and Stevens, Reporters for the Supreme Court of Georgia.

Augusta Evening News v. Radford. Libel.
Public officer. Before Judge Eve. City court of Richmond county.

An article in a newspaper charging a public officer with unbecoming and improper conduct merely to get fees, tends to expose him to public contempt and is therefore libelous. Code, 2974. Accordingly there was no error in overruling a demurrer was no error in overruling a demurrer to a declaration which, in effect, alleged the willful and malicious publication of an article charging, in substance, that the plaintiff, who was a constable, solicited business for the magistrates' courts by attending the daily sessions of the recorder's court and inducing persons tried therein to sue out unnecessary warrants against other persons, the declaration further alleging that by such publication it was intended to charge that the plaintiff did the acts mentioned for the evil and corrupt motive of increasing his fees as a constable.

Bacon v. Mayor and Aldermen of Savannah.

Municipal corporation. Street assessment.

Execution. Before Judge Falligant.

Chatham superior court.

For a municipality to take the property of a citizen under a power conferred by the legislature to tax by local assessment it must in all matters of substance follow the power strictly. Where the legislature authorized a municipal corporation to improve its streets and to assess on the basis of frontage the abutting real estate for two-thirds of the cost of such improvements and further provided that the municipality should be treated as the owner of all intersections, and where the mayor and aldermen passed an ordinance requiring a catain street to be improved and assessing two-thirds of the cost against the abutting owners and providing that a certain committee should furnish to each abutting owner a bill of his proportion of the cost, according to frontage, and further directed that the committee should leave out of the calculation both the frontage and the cost of the street intersections, the last part of the ordinance was contrary to the statute and the assessment made by the committee against an abutting owner upon the plan of the ordinance was illegal and an execution founded on the assessment against said owner was also illegal. Consequently a charge by the court that the execution founded on the defendant to show the contrary was erroneous. This error vitiated the whole trial and the court erred in not granting a new trial.

2. As there has been no legal apportionment of the assessment amongst the several abutting parcels of real estate, it is indispensable that such apportion ment of that such apportion ment of that such apportion ment of that such apportion ment is host the court as the several abutting parcels of real estate, it is indispensable that such apportion ment could be apported as the court of the several abutting parcels of real estate, it is indispensable that such apportion ment of the assessment amongs

2. As there has been no legal apportionment of the assessment amongst the several abutting parcels of real estate, it is indispensable that such apportionment should be made. The safe course would be to make it, not through a committee, but directly by the mayor and aldermen, the municipal body, basing it upon proper evidence. There ought to be an assessment roll showing the total cost of the work and as to two-thirds thereof, how it is apportioned amongst the several abutting parcels, including the street intersections, giving the sums chargeable to each parcel with the name of the owner, the mayor and aldermen being treated as owner of the street intersections. This roll, when officially ascertained to be correct, should be entered on the minutes of the mayor and aldermen for due authentication and preservation. Whether any further municipal legislation on the subject may be requisite in consequence of the defect in the existing ordinance, is a matter for consideration.

The judgment is reversed, with the direction that the levy be dismissed, Bleckley, C. J. not presiding.

Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Jenkins. Telegraph company. Negligence. Before Judge Eve. City court of Richmond county. The declaration set forth a cause of ac-tion against the telegraph company, the same The declaration set forth a cause of action against the telegraph company, the same alleging that the plaintiff's husband, an employe of the company, was killed without fault or negligence on his part and wholly by the fault and negligence of the company, the homicide being caused by the falling of a rotten pole, which he had climbed in the performance of the duties of this employment and its defective condition being unknown to him. If the declaration was defective in matter of form in failing to allege that the company's negligence consisted in keeping the pole in use, either with the knowledge of its condition or negligently without knowledge, this was matter for special demurrer. Before Judge Janes. Haralson superior court.

1. To authorize a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in a suit upon an open account without proving the account, the case must be in default, and it must affirmatively appear that the service was personal. Code, sec. 3457. Appearing and answering at the first term, though no written plea was filed, would relieve the case from being in default; and an entry by the sheriff that he had served the three defendants to the action, naming them, "each with a copy of this within writ and process," does not, for the purposes of the section cited, sufficiently show that the service was personal. Consequently the court, under these circumstances, erred in directing a verdict for the plaintiff without proof of the correctness of the account.

stances, erred in directing a verdict for the plaintiff without proof of the correctness of the account.

2. The declaration not alleging when the account sued on became due, even if the plaintiff had been entitled to a verdict without introducing evidence, the verdict could not properly include interest from any day prior to the filing of the declaration. For recover such interest on this declaration, there should have been evidence that the account became due on the day from which the interest was allowed, suit having been begun within two months from the date of the last item of the account.

2. In an action upon such a note as that referred to above, a plea of usury setting forth the statute of New York, the plea not being demurred to but allowed to stand for trial, is sufficient to admit in evidence that statute, whether the sum on which the usury was to be paid, the time when the contract was made, when payable, and the amount of usury agreed upon, taken or reserved, be set forth in the plea or not.

1. A. juror is not incompetent to try the case because his stepdaughter married the brother of the plaintiff. The marriage established no relationship or affinity between the juror and plaintiff.

2. A railway agent who sells a Sunday excursion ticket consisting of two parts, one of which signifies that it was to be used in going and the other in returning, but neither of them indicating any particular train, is a proper person of whom to inquire, at the time the ticket is purchased, as to whether it would afford the right to return on a fast train, called the "Cannon Ball," of the same day or night. His reply in the affirmative, together with the possession of the return part of the ticket and its production to the conductir of the fast train, would entitle the passenger to return on that train, and be put off at the proper station, unless he knew or had sufficient reason to believe that the agent was misinforming him, or that there was some rule or order of the company either denying to the agent, authority to answer such a question or forbidding the recognition of such a ticket by the conductor on the fast train.

usually stop at the station, he would have no absolute right to return on that train, provided there was another on which he could return before his ticket expired.

4. There being no conditions on the face of the ticket, and no controversy as to the right of the passenger to return on some train, it was error to charge the jury that one who buys a return ticket has a right to return if he performs all the conditions of the ticket, and that if the agent told the passenger that he could go and return on his ticket, the passenger had a right to presume that he could do so, and if in his effort to do so he was put off at any other station, he would be entitled to damages. The pressure of the case was upon the right of the passenger to return on the fast train, and the charge, though correct as abstract law, was not pertinent to that question and might have misled the jury.

5. In order for a passenger to recover for wrongful expulsion from a train it is not necessary that the conductor should have put his hands on him.

6. A passenger who brings an action of tort for wrongful expulsion from a train, is not restricted to a recovery as for breach of contract but may recover for his injury as a tort. The amount of general damage (no special damage being proved) is matter for the enlightened conscience of an impartial jury.

New trial. Before Judge I Iartin. Muscogee superior court.
1. One ground of a motion for new trial being that the verdict was contrary to instructions given by the court to the jury, these instructions being set out in the motion, there was no error in refusing, at the hearing of the motion, to strike this ground, although it may have been "idle," "unperfluous," "not according to law," and "contrary to legal," "not according to law," was properly overruied, and the action was maintainable under section 3406 of the code. Had the demurrer to the declaration on the reconstitution of 1868. Under that constitution, this paragraph, by its own terms, was directory only to the legislature, and this was so both as to the prohibition against amending a section of the code by mere reference to its number, and as to the requirement that the amending section 3329 (now 3406) of the code, is not unconstitutional as being violative of par. 3, section 6, article 3, of the code, is not unconstitutional as being violative of par. 3, section 6, article 3, of the code, is not unconstitutional as being violative of par. 3, section 6, article 3, of the code, is not unconstitutional as being violative of par. 3, section 6, article 3, of the code, is not unconstitutional as being violative of par. 3, section 6, article 3, of the code, is not unconstitutional as being violative of par. 3, section 6, article 3, of the code, is not unconstitution of 1868. Amendment. Attachment. Garnishment. Before Judge Sweat. Glynn superior court.

1. Under the act of February 24, 1877, (pamphlet p. 106; code add. p. V.), the special bailiff of a county court is authorized to serve a summons of garnishment upon the sheriff of the county, and when a Puch bailiff had made an entry of service singing the entry as bailiff, although it was error to allow the return of service to be so amended as to make it appear that the officer was an "acting constable" in making the service, the error was harmless, the facts showing that the service was good.

2. The fact that the attorney at law of the plaintiff in attachment signed the plaintiff's name to the attachment bond when the latter had himself made the affidavit to obtain the attachment, does not necessarily require a dismissal of the attachment. If signing the plaintiff's name by the attorney was not, under the circumstances, lawful, the bond was amendable.

3. Where property expensive to keep was levied on by virtue of an attachment and sold by the sheriff under an order of the judge of the superior court according to the provisions of section 3648 of the code, the sheriff retaining the money subject to the order of the court, and thereafter both the attachment and the declaration based thereon were, on motin of the defendant, dismissed for fatal defects, the money in the sheriff's hands was subject to garnishment by virtue of a second attachment at the instance of the plaintiff in the first. After the first attachment was dismissed the money held by the sheriff belonged to the party from the sale of whose property it was realized, he having ratified the sale by contesting the garnishment and moving to dismiss a second attachment and moving to dismiss a second attachment upon which the garnishment was issued.

Judgment affirmed in both cases. Bleckley, C. J., not presiding.

MARSHAL BUCK AROUSED.

He Writes a Card About a Matter Which Will Bear Further Light. The letter from "An Old Timer" The Constitution of yesterday drew blood from Marshal Alfred E. Buck and he sends a card for publication, which is printed The letter of "An Old Timer" was given a place in these columns all the more readily because of its plausible statement concerning the use of the republican cam-paign fund in aid of Watson's fight against paign fund in aid of Watson's fight against Black in the tenth district last year. It was charged during that campaign through our columns that Marshal Buck was aiding and abetting Watson, and part of the proof came to light in a sensational way when it was proven that Colonel Buck had furnished the money to pay a paper bill for Watson's campaign organ. The People's Party Paper, in this city. That fact set the democrats to ferreting out the real inwardness of the Black-Watson campaign and among other things it was discovered: was discovered: 1. That Marshal Buck advised the negro

1. That Marshal Buck advised the negro republicans to make no nomination in the tenth, but to support Watson.

2. That he sent negro speakers into the district, paying their expenses from his campaign fund, to speak for Watson and organize the negroes to vote for him.

3. That Marshal Buck had the tickets for the negroes printed with—Watson's name for congress on them and paid for their distribution among the negro voters of the district.

4. That he went himself to the district to see that his above plans were being carried out.

When Marshal Buck's card was received. yesterday a reporter was sent to the writer of the letter signed "An Old Timer" and he was asked to state his reasons for charging that Marshal Buck had "confessed" to aiding Watson.

He replied: "I did not base my statement upon absurd rumor, according to my judgment of the men from whom I first heard the comments that I repeated. After the elections, in conversation over the results and incidents of the campaign, a friend who was familiar about populist headquarters in this city, told me that Mr. Buck did all he could to help Watson and that when the people's party and prohibition committees joined forces against Colonel Livingston and also desired Colonel Buck to help defeat the democratic candidate, he expressed his perfect willingness to do so, but said he could not contribute much money to the work, as he had used most of his campaign fund in the tenth district. I asked one of the prohibition committee about it and he said that was his understanding of Mr. Buck's answer to the committee and as repeated by Dr. Perkins, who was chairman of the campaign committee of the prohibition party." As to the want of harmony between Marshal Buck and Colonel Jonathan Norcross, who once championed the "white republican party" movement, that rests in abeyance, because Colonel Norcross cannot now, in his state of health, be fully interviewed. But it will be news to most of the people of Georgia that Marshal Buck was one of those who championed that movement.

The card of Marshal Buck is as follows: After the elections, in conversation over the results and incidents of the campaign.

the people of Georgia that Marshal Buck was one of those who championed that movement.

The card of Marshal Buck is as follows: Atlanta, Ga., April 15, 1893.—Editor Constitution: Kindly permit me to state through your columns that "Old Timer" in his complimentary (?) letter in this morning's issue of your paper, concerning me and my political course gives me entirely too much credit. His shot is wide of the mark when he states by own "confession" (?) that in the Black. Watson campaign last year, I furnished most of my Georgia campaign fund to the Watson side of the fight. I have made no such "confession," as he terms it, and when he states that I say that I put the bulk of all the money I raised for campaign purposes into the fight to help Watson defeat Black, he must be hasing his statement upon absurd rumor, as I cannot believe that he would draw upon his imagination to so large an extent. I furnished no money to Mr. Watson, or to the populists in the tenth district. In fact, I had never had any communication directly, or indirectly, with Mr. Watson and had never met him till months after the election.

When he stated that I have bitterly fought such men as Jonathan Norcross, he is again wrong. If he will consult Mr. Norcross, he will find that he is mistaken, as in every political campaign Mr. Norcross and I have been together, united and working in harmony.

While "Old Timer" is also in error in many other statements contained in his letter, in stating that I expected no favors from the democratic marshal under Cleveland's last administration, a strong active partisan, was permitted to serve out, not only his four years' term but more than four months additional, under Harrison's administration, no such consideration under a democratic administration could reasonably be expected to be shown to a republican marshal. Very respectfully,

P. S.—Anonymous letters are usually regarded as worthy of no consideration, and "Old Timer" would not have been noticed by me had I not thought it possible that Mr Watson or o

THAT CO-RECEIVERSHIP FIGHT.

Mr. Alex King Maden Strong Argument Against the Appointment of Summerfield.

The petition of the Central Trust Company, of New York, for the appointment of Elias Summerfield as co-receiver of the Ma-rietta and North Georgia, was before Judge Newman in continuation Saturday mornrietta and North Georgia, was before Judge Newman in continuation Saturday morning.

Colonel John Glenn read counter affidavits in regard to the affidavits read by the defense, those objecting to the appointment of Summerfield, among which was the affidavit of Mr. Summerfield himself. Mr. Summerfield set forth that all that had been said against his reputation to the effect that it was not good was untrue.

The evidence was all in by noon and argument was commenced by Mr. Burton Smith for the petitioners, and directed his efforts to show where the affidavits of the objectors aimed at Summerfield had no weight at all. He argued that Summerfield was in a position to get his hands on a pile of money that could be used for building up and advancing the interests of the road.

He was followed by Mr. Alex King, who took a different line, and stated that the object of the motion was to get hold of the road and $600,000 worth of receiver's certificates which had been authorized but not utilized. He also set forth that the road is not in need of an additional receiver.

He stated that courts are averse to appointing two receivers and that it is an established principle that they will not authorize the issue of receiver's certificates when the step can be avoided. He said that the court was threatened with danger in appointing a co-receiver, that the indebtedness of the company would be increased and that the bond holders would eventually be shut out of the property. Mr. Klug said that Mr. Summerfield is interested in the Chattanooga Southern which is to be part of a new system under the reorganization, and he stated that the law forbids interested parties serving as receiver. He attacked the proposition to appoint a co-receiver from every side.

The argument will be resumed this morning at 9:30 o'clock. Judge Newman fixed a later hour, as Mr. Cornick, of Knoxville in time for the wedding. So he had his associates in the case agree and get the judge to agree to an earlier hour for taking up the argument.

CAUGHT AT-THE C

CAUGHT AT THE CAPITOL.

The jolly good fellows from Indiana chanced in upon the men at the agricultural department of the statehouse Saturday and kept things lively for a time. They were Henry M. Sweetser and George L. Dixon, both of Evansville. They began to talk about old times. Dixon was in the fights from the beginning to the end of the war and tells many a good story about it all. They say they just ran away from home to spend a few days in the south and when they reached Atlanta they could not tear themselves away. They say that it is a much finer and far more prosperous city than they had thought it would be. Mr. Sweetser is president of one of the largest steamship and packing companies in that section of the state. The jolly good fellows from Indiana

It is really very interesting to hear Mr. Stanhope Sams talk French with Signor Furce, the well-known French and Spanish teacher. Saturday Signor Furce happened in upon the clerk of the executive department and it was evident from the first glance that he was a linguist of merit when it comes to French and Spanish. That was all that Mr. Sams, whom The New York Sun has called "Pottsdam Sams," wanted to make him happy. He is himself a good talker in these languages—in any language to be exact. They chatted away merrily, indeed, for a long time and when at last Mr. Sams, who, as everybody knows, is an applicant for the mission to Persia, struck him for a conversation in his pet tongue, that of the Persians, the signor threw up his cards and said, "I pass. Mr. Sams ought to have that appointment," the signor said walking away.

STRANGE STORY FROM LIFE.

A Dramatic Scene Occurred in Chief Con-nolly's Office—Husband and Wife Beunited and Happier Than Ever.

A cross of faded flowers from his dead brother's grave, and a rumpled skirt which his lost wife had worn, the pattern of which was part of his memory of her, caused a big, strong man to break down and weep in Chief o'Cnnolly's office Saturday morn-ing, and throwing up his hands in the heipless fashion of a child, he cried out:

"It's her, it's her; oh, beg her to come back to me; I will forgive her?"

He caught up the skirt and held it eagerly as he would a treasure. Tenderly and gently he placed the cross of flowers upon the folds of the skirt which he smoothed with his trembling hands.

"This is her skirt," he went on excitedly,

"This is her skirt," he went on excitedly,
"she wore it off when she left—I'd know it

The poor fellow could not hide his weakness and he made no attempt to apologize for it. His only thought was of his wife which makes it a story equal to some fanctful creation of a novelist's brain.

Last Thursday a young woman came to police headquarters and with tears and sighs told a story which was too much like hundreds of other stories that are heard at police headquarters that it aroused no special interest. It was only the story of a trusting girl who had had faith enough in a heartless lover to follow him away from home to this city and upon arriving here she was basely deceived and deserted. Here lover betrayed her confidence and carried her to the house of Minnie Lee, on Collins street, telling her that it was a boarding house. She had spent the night there and learning its real character, she sought protection by throwing herself upon the mercy of the police.

She had no money, she said, and no friends, and she wanted to find refuge in a house of correction. The police were ready to help her. Chief Connolly secured a place for the young woman in the home for young girls, and nothing more was said of it. There was nothing it really, the officers said, only a penitent young woman rescued from a life of shame of which she had grown tired.

was nothing it really, the officers said, only a penitent young woman rescued from a life of shame of which she had grown tired.

In the morning a young man about thirty years old called at the police station and asked for Chief Connolly. To the chief he gave his name as Thomas R. Densmore, of Rome, Ga., and said he had come to Atlanta to look for his wife who had left him and come to Atlanta with a man.

Densmore was deeply troubled and told the story in a way that indicated acutest agony. He said he had always treated his wife tenderly and their married life had been very happy, he thought. He had worked hard for her and had tried to make her a good husband. He gave a very clear description of his runaway wife, so clear indeed, that Chief Connolly exclaimed:

"Why, we had a young woman here the other day who answers to that description. Is it possible that is she?"

He remembered that she had left some of her personal effects in his office Thursday, and he had the bundle brought out. He unrolled it. There was a shapeless skirt, rolled up, a few other articles and a cross of faded flowers. Densmore choked up as the chief undid the bundle, and reaching out for them with eager hands, he cried out: "It's her; it's her;" and burst into uncontrollable weeping. There could be no doubt of it. He recognized her things, and it was pitiful to hear instearful pleadings to the chief to beg her to come back to him.

Chief Connolly sent Detective Ed Cason to the house of correction to which the young woman had been sent with instructions to bring her to police headquarters. While he was gone the distressed husband paced the corridor in front of the chief's office, imparient for the return of the officer with his wife.

There was a tearful reunion between husband and wife when the detective got back. It was a touching scene and the chief busied himself at his work while the view model in the sent and the sent to the produce the correction of the chief's office, imparient for the return of the officer with his wife.

CHARLEY SELTZER IN COURT.

His Suit Against His Wife for the Recovery of Property Deeded to Her.

The suit of Charles Seltzer against his wife, Mrs. Lonisa Seltzer, for the recovery of property deeded to her several months ago, as he claims, under compulsion, was taken up before Judge Marshall Clarke Saturday morning.

Altogether the sum involved in the suit is about $30,000. The facts underlying the suit were given to the readers of The Constitution at the time the bill was filed.

It is claimed by the plaintiff that while he had been guilty of indiscretions, he loved his wife devotedly, and was still true to her. On the contrary, his wife during the month of last December had employed detectives to spy his movements and was the cause of his subsequent arrest, together with another person. The two were carried to police headquarters, and afterwards under a threat of suing him for a divorce and in the presence of her attorney, he had executed to her a deed to his property. It was this property, which he sought to recover.

The bill was filed by the attorneys for Mr. Seltzer, Messrs. Alex and Burton Smith. It was read yesterday morning in court by Mr. Alex Smith.

The answer of Mrs. Seltzer to the charges of the bill was read by Mr. Ben Conyers, of the firm of Kontz & Conyers, who represent the defendant. The defendant alleged that her husband had treated her cruelly and had several times locked her up in the house, carrying the keys with him. He frequently remained away until late at night.

She denied that she had been guilty of any fraud in obtaining the deed from her husband to the property, which she merely sought to protect. Her husband had fallen improperly in love with a bad woman, to whom he had written frequent letters, and whom he had carried to Europe and other places, passing her off as his widowed sister. The name of this woman was Lena Dixon. He had spent large sums of money on this woman and in various other ways had squandered his property.

It is an interesting case and was merely commenced yes

The Atianta barbecue is an institution that is often felt in Atianta. It is a grand thing. "It is a department of state, I'll state," remarked one of the party yeserday on his return from the cue, and he called for a creme de mint at the first bar he could run against.

That tells the whole story—the creme de mint.

IT CONVENES TODAY.

The Criminal Branch of the Superior Court Will Resume Its Docket.

The criminal branch of the superior court, Judge Richard H. Clark presiding, will convene this morning at 9 o'clock.

There are now in the Fulton county jail as many as fifty inmates that will be tried at the present term of the court. The smaller cases will be tried first in order to clear the jail and to save the county the clear the jail and to save the county the expense of their incarceration.

The trial of Porter Stocks for the killing of Alph Cassin, and the trial of Julia Force, for the killing of her two sisters, will occur as soon as the smaller cases are disposed of. It will probably be the last of the month or the first of next before either of the murder cases are tried. The grand jury adjourned last Friday afternoon to convene again next Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

"Among the Ozarke."

"The Land of Big Red Apples," is the title of an attractive and highly interesting book recently issued. It is handsomely illustrated with views of south Missouri scenery, including the famous Olden fruit farm of three thousand acres in Howell county. It pertains entirely to fruit raising in that great fruit belt of America, the southern slope of the Ozarks, and will prove of great value, not only to fruit gyers, but to every farmer and homeseeker in other states looking for a farm and a home. Mailed free. Address

Gin and Buchu

For the last few years kidney disease has been rapidly on the increase. Insidious in its approach—alarming in set down some of the brightest intellects of the age. Many suffer from kidney trouble long before they are aware of the true character of their complaint.

In disease any neglect or delay is dangerous. This is peculiarly true of all kidney affections. As soon as the first symptoms appear, treatment should commence.

Dull pain in the back, weakness over the joins or tenderness upon pressure, scanty or reddish urine, cloudy after standing, brick dust deposit, albumen or uric acid reaction, smarting or burning pains in passing water, etc., are danger signals, and should be promptly heeded.

ON WHEEL TO CHICAGO

Mr. W. P. Moss and His Pour-Year Old Daughter

WILL PROBABLY MAKE THE TRIP.

The Little Girl Will Ride on the Same Wheel with Her Father-But It Is Not Fully Decided Upon.

Mr. W. F. Moss, the manager of Bain & Kirkpatrick's bicycle department, has about decided to take a trip to Chicago on a wheel, his little four-year-old daughter to accompany him, riding on the bicycle. This fact was first disclosed by a letter which appeared in a New Orleans paper, which evidently misunderstood the mean-which appeared in a New Orleans paper, which evidently misunderstood the meaning of the epistle and became unnecessarily alarmed. This is the letter:

The Times-Democrat is in receipt of the following letter, which explains itself. If there is a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children in the city of Atlanta it should take steps at once to prevent the carrying out of the proposed cruel undertaking:

"Atlanta, Ga., April 12, 1883.-Editor Times-Democrat: A four-year-old child to ride on a bicycle from Atlanta, Ga., to Chicago, I will leave here about May 1st on a bicycle for Chicago; will be accompanied by my little four-year-old girl, who will ride the entire distance with me—about 800 miles; the trip to be made in three to four weeks. Shall be pleased to wire you daily of our progress, giving any incidents of interest that may, and without doubt will, occur for $1 each communication; you to pay "elegraph toll. Should you decide to accept communications, full particulars will be sent you at an early date, and at the same time photograph of the baby who will make the most remarkable ride of the age. Yours truly, W. F. MOSS.

"No. 9. North Pryor street, Atlanta, Ga."

From the tone of the letter it would seem

From the tone of the letter it would seem at first glance that the little girl was to ride a wheel by herself, but such is no the case.

"Well, yes," said Mr. Moss in a rather the case.

"Well, yes," said Mr. Moss in a rather hesitating manner when asked about his proposed trip to Chicago, "I had thought of doing such a thing. It is my plan, if I finally decide upon going to Chicago, to take my little daughter, who is but four years old, with me. I will have a hammock seat swung in front of the regular machine seat and in it she will be as confortable as can be, and with the pneumatic tires nothing could be smoother.

"If I go I will travel in the early mornings and afternoons, resting during the warmer part of the days. It will take me about three weeks to make the distance, which is about 800 miles, and should I finally decide upon going I will leave the 1st of May."

Mr. Moss's tone, as he spoke, indicated confidence in his ability to make the trip as outlined, and if he does it will be the first of its kind known in the annals of bicycling, a truly wonderful performance, and for the little girl a pleasant trip.

Mr. Moss says that he has not decided what wheel he will use, and, in fact, has not fully made up his mind. If possible he intends to make the trip remunerative, inasmuch as he could keep different newspapers informed as to his movements, a thing which would interest all wheelmen.

If Mr. Moss decides to go it is hardly likely that the society for the prevention of cruelty to children will interfere, but on the other hand more fathers will be advised that such a pleasant outing, on perhaps not such an extensive scale, would be most beneficial to their little ones.

STRINGFELLOW, THE SCOUT.

This Noted Character of the Late War Will Atlanta is to be honored in the near future by a visit from Frank Stringfellow, the noted scout who figured in so many daring escapades during the late war.

He was the confidential scout of Lee and Stuart, and so absolutely alid they rely upon his judgment and accuracy that a single message from him to the commander-in-chief was sufficient to cause the Army of Northern Virginia to start from camp or bivouac and hurl themselves upon the enemy.

Mr. Stringfellow will lecture in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the lecture will be given under the Deliver a Lecture in This City.

and the lecture will be given under the auspices of the Guild of St. Luke's cathedral. The proceeds of this entertainment will be devoted to a charitable object.

ment will be devoted to a charitable object.

The subject of the lecture will be "Scout Life." It will be an unwritten page of American history that no one who seeks to be well informed can afford to miss. Children especially should hear the lecture as it will be a rare opportunity for them to hear something of the late war from such eminent and entertaining authority.

The lecture will be one of the intellectual treats of the season.
